Probe Ohio River For More Victims

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va. (AP) — At least five persons were known dead and 28 persons missing today from the collapse of a 40-year-old suspension bridge into the Ohio River near this western West Virginia community.

An armada of skin divers, boats and tugs were probing the frigid stream for additional victims of the Friday disaster which struck during the late afternoon rush hour.

Expect More Victims

West Virginia State police, who gave the count of dead and missing, said a temporary morgue had been set up to receive the expected additional victims.

The scene early today showed two solitary piers sticking out of the river where the narrow two-lane 1,750-foot suspension bridge once connected Ohio and West Virginia.

Eyewitnesses to the collapse estimated as many as 75 vehicles may have been on the span when it keeled over with a thunderous roar.

Holzer Hospital at Gallipolis, Ohio, four miles from Point Pleasant, received bodies of four men and one unidentified woman.

Ohio and West Virginia authorities agreed the death toll, once divers searched the river's depths, would go much higher. Officials said there was little chance of finding any more survivors amid the tangle of concrete and steel in the river.

'Anyone who comes out of the river will not be breathing,' said John Epling, Gallia County, Ohio, prosecutor. He was named by Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes to supervise operations on the Ohio side.

'There is no question that the final figure will be much higher,' said West Virginia State Police Capt. J.D. Baisden.

Nine Hospitalized

Nine persons were hospitalized at Gallipolis and Point Pleasant.

Searchers with acetylene torches worked through the night trying to untangle vehicles and locate bodies in the wreckage where a long bridge section at the Ohio end fell onto land.

'I earnestly hope that no further expansion will come from the initiative or decisions of the United States,' Cooper said.

A delegation of House leaders telephoned the President in the early evening to inform him it was ready to adjourn and, following tradition, he advised them he had no more business for the session to consider. Then he congratulated Congress for its work.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen performed the same task for their chamber.

The House was thrown into uproar at the start of the 1967 session over seating of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y. He finally was denied his post after a committee found him guilty of misuse of public funds.

Divers resume their search at dawn.

Traffic was bumper to bumper in both directions when the bridge fell at 5:10 p.m.

The bridge superstructure and concrete floor tumbled on top of the cars and trucks as they hit the water.

West Virginia Gov. Hulett C. Smith and Gov. Rhodes pledged the resources of the two states into an investigation to determine depth was variously estimated from 30 to 70 feet.

Long Congress Session Ends

Controversy and Rejections

WASHINGTON (AP) — A long 1967 congressional session beset with controversy over the Vietnam war and rejection of many of President Johnson's major proposals, including a tax hike, has ended.

The session ended at 6:50 p. m. Friday with adjournment of the Senate; the House had quit at 6:36. Congress will reconvene in a month, on Jan. 15, when the question of an income tax surcharge and other rejected proposals will be considered again.

In the final working hours Congress approved these major bills:

Major Bills Approved
—An omnibus Social Security bill raising by at least 13 percent the cash benefits of 24 million people and hiking the payroll taxes of 75 million others to finance the improvements;
—A $1.77 billion appropriation for the antipoverty program—just about the amount cited as the minimum needed by Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity;

—A $9.3 billion authorization to finance federal aid to education through June 30, 1970, with a prime aim of the legislation being improved educational opportunities for poor children;

—A record-low foreign aid bill of $2.29 billion—nearly $1 billion less than Johnson asked for.

Despite some big setbacks, Johnson did see some major legislation clear the Congress and he congratulated both houses "on a great job done."

The first session of the 90th Congress also increased postal rates, boosted federal employees' and military pay, strengthened air pollution control laws, set up a public broadcast corporation to aid noncommercial television, and tightened meat inspection laws.

But Congress declined to pass Johnson's proposed 10 percent income tax surcharge, his major anticrime bill, his civil rights proposals, his gun-control legislation, his election reform bill, or his "truth in lending" proposal.

Some of the President's recommendations attracted such little support that he did not push for action on them. They included measures to liberalize trade with Communist nations and to merge the labor and commerce departments.

Most legislators agreed that unhappiness over the war caused many of the administration's problems at the Capitol. This became clear early in the year when Johnson's budget revealed that many programs, such as school aid, were being financed far below the authorized amounts because of the military demands.

Big Problem in House
The President's big problems on his program came in the House, where Republicans had 47 more members than in the preceding Congress.

Debates on war policy consumed many hours. Most of the attacks on the President's course in Vietnam came from fellow Democrats. The Senate asked him in a unanimously adopted resolution to consider putting the war issue before the United Nations.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., one of the critics of the war, delivered one last speech Friday on the subject, expressing concern at reports the administration is considering a limited invasion of the North or a hot-pursuit policy in which American forces would chase the enemy into Laos and Cambodia, where the Communists have sanctuaries.

Congratulated for Work
"I earnestly hope that no further expansion will come from the initiative or decisions of the United States," Cooper said.

A delegation of House leaders telephoned the President in the early evening to inform him it was ready to adjourn and, following tradition, he advised them he had no more business for the session to consider. Then he congratulated Congress for its work.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen performed the same task for their chamber.

UCCC Viet Symposium

War 3 Threat Agreed

BY HUGH REYNOLDS

That United States presence in Vietnam, or lack of it, will lead to World War III was one of the few points agreed upon at a symposium on Vietnam at Ulster County Community College last night.

The panel discussion, held in the John Burroughs Science Building, was sponsored by the college's Social Science Club and had as its moderator, Professor Harry Matzen, a UCCC history teacher.

Panel members included G. Gordon Liddy, assistant district attorney in Dutchess County; UCCC economics professor Edward Nadel, former New Paltz professor John Garlock and Allan J. Warner, a 22-year retired Air Force veteran who had served in Vietnam. Garlock and Nadel opposed the Johnson administration's Vietnam policy while Liddy and Warner took a position in support of it.

Among the some 60 persons attending the symposium were members of the Ulster County Peace Committee led by Mrs. Sylvia Day.

Mrs. Day posed a question that two of the opponents, Liddy and Garlock, agreed upon. She asked them to comment on President Johnson's 1964 campaign statement that American troops would not be sent to fight an Asian war. In conjunction with the American escalation Mrs. Day also asked what fact precipitated that escalation.

Said Liddy, "I think President Johnson was somewhat less than candid with the American people in that campaign statement. I think the President intended to escalate when, in fact, he said he wasn't going to."

The panelists were asked the results of U. S. presence in Vietnam, or lack of it. Both sides seemed to agree that a third world war, a nuclear war, was a definite possibility.

Garlock was more direct when he said, "Yeah, Johnson lied. The fact that precipitated the escalation was Johnson's election."

Patler Convicted

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — John Patler, ex-member of the American Nazi party, was convicted early today of first-degree murder in the shooting death of George Lincoln Rockwell, leader of the anti-Negro, anti-Jewish group.

An Arlington County Circuit Court jury returned the verdict as Patler, 29, sat ash-faced at a table facing them.

Judge Charles S. Russell said he would impose a sentence of 20 years imprisonment on Monday.

Rockwell was shot to death while getting into his car in the parking lot of an Arlington shopping center Aug. 25. Patler, an ex-Marine who had a falling out with Rockwell over Nazi party matters, was arrested shortly afterward.

Probe Ohio River For More Victims

POINT PLEASANT, W.Va. (AP) — At least five persons were known dead and 28 persons missing today from the collapse of a 40-year-old suspension bridge into the Ohio River near this western West Virginia community.

An armada of skin divers, boats and tugs were probing the frigid stream for additional victims of the Friday disaster which struck during the late afternoon rush hour.

Expect More Victims

West Virginia State police, who gave the count of dead and missing, said a temporary morgue had been set up to receive the expected additional victims.

The scene early today showed two solitary piers sticking out of the river where the narrow two-lane 1,750-foot suspension bridge once connected Ohio and West Virginia.

Eyewitnesses to the collapse estimated as many as 75 vehicles may have been on the span when it keeled over with a thunderous roar.

Holzer Hospital at Gallipolis, Ohio, four miles from Point Pleasant, received bodies of four men and one unidentified woman.

Ohio and West Virginia authorities agreed the death toll, once divers searched the river's depths, would go much higher. Officials said there was little chance of finding any more survivors amid the tangle of concrete and steel in the river.

Nine Hospitalized

Nine persons were hospitalized at Gallipolis and Point Pleasant.

Searchers with acetylene torches worked through the night trying to untangle vehicles and locate bodies in the wreckage where a long bridge section at the Ohio end fell onto land.

West Virginia Gov. Hulett C. Smith and Gov. Rhodes pledged the resources of the two states into an investigation to determine the cause of the collapse. Both came here Friday night.

"That old bridge was bouncing up and down like it always does," sobbed Howard Boggs. His 18-year-old wife and 17-month-old daughter—both among the missing—were in the car with him when it plunged into the channel where the depth was variously estimated from 30 to 70 feet.

"Then all of a sudden everything was falling down," he said. "My feet touched the bottom of the damned river."

He said he didn't know how he got out of the car. "I just hope to God Marjorie and the kid got out okay."

Freak Storm Gives Us Anxious Moments

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

A freak unexpected snowstorm sneaked across Ulster County and the Mid-Hudson Valley early today, coating the highways with a thin coating of snow that caused hazardous driving conditions for a time.

Charles J. Cole, superintendent of the Public Works Department, said neither the weather service at Pennsylvania State College or the Northeast Weather Service in Massachusetts, who usually notify local officials of approaching storms, forecast today's storm.

Area authorities investigated several highway accidents due to slippery pavement.

Fire companies in the county were kept busy responding to calls, but none were directly associated with the weather conditions.

A spokesman for the county highway department reported 90 per cent of the equipment was activated between 1:30 and 2 a. m. when highway conditions became hazardous. The worst conditions were reported in the northern and western parts of the county, an official said.

In the city a crew of workmen started at 12:30 a. m. to salt and sand streets in some sections because of slippery conditions. At 2 a. m. two other trucks were assigned to similar sanding and salting work to eliminate hazardous conditions.

No serious traffic tieups were reported in the area.

Mary Nichols, 44, of 162 Bayard Street, Port Ewen, narrowly escaped serious injury at 2:15 a. m. today when her car skidded out of control on icy slick highway and overturned about 5½ miles south of Kingston, according to State Trooper J. F. Czaplinski of Highland.

At 10:30 p. m. Friday, John Smith, 36, of 41 Lafayette avenue, was driving north on Route 9W five miles south of the city line when a deer leaped into the path of his car. The vehicle hit the deer and was damaged, Trooper Czaplinski said.

Three fire companies were called out at 6:45 p. m. yesterday to quell a fire of undetermined origin which burned out the interior of the trailer home of Jack Sabarene on Route 44-45 in Ardonia. Fire Chief William Depew who was in command of firemen from his unit and Clintondale and Plattkill, said heavy damage from smoke and fire resulted.

Chief Depew said there was no one at home at the time of the fire. He said the trailer was located about 500 yards from the Roggia residence which was the scene of a serious fire Dec. 10. The cause of the fire was determined.

Malden-West Camp fire units were dispatched to the Alpha Cement Co. plant at 4:42 a. m. today to quell a fire that erupted in a crusher conveyor. The blaze was quickly extinguished but no estimate of damage was reported.

Milton firemen responded to an alarm at 11:58 a. m. yesterday after fire was discovered in a barn on Indian Road. Elleville and New Paltz firemen quelled fires in automobiles, and the Olive Fire Co. checked a chimney fire in that district after 10:15 p. m.

Pledge of Troopers: 'We'll Get Killers'

Search by air and land was pressed today as more than 300 troopers converged on the community of Parish north of Syracuse in an intense search for the killers of Trooper William G. Doyle, 27, shot Thursday while trying to stop a stolen car.

Troopers said a command post has been set up at Parish and search included the area of Oneida Lake. A State Conservation Department helicopter and a private helicopter, a State Police plane and two private aircraft soared over the upstate area seeking clues of the pair.

Roadblocks continued active in this area and throughout the state.

"We'll get these guys if it takes 100 years," said Col. John Roche, assistant superintendent of State Police who is directing the manhunt. The Associated Press reported.

Suspects in the search were two men with prison records

Long Congress Session Ends

Controversy and Rejections

WASHINGTON (AP) — A long 1967 congressional session beset with controversy over the Vietnam war and rejection of many of President Johnson's major proposals, including a tax hike, has ended.

The session ended at 6:50 p. m. Friday with adjournment of the Senate; the House had quit at 6:36. Congress will reconvene in a month, on Jan. 15, when the question of an income tax surcharge and other rejected proposals will be considered again.

In the final working hours Congress approved these major bills:

Major Bills Approved

—An omnibus Social Security bill raising by at least 13 percent the cash benefits of 24 million people and hiking the payroll taxes of 75 million others to finance the improvements;

—A $1.77 billion appropriation for the antipoverty program—just about the amount cited as the minimum needed by Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity;

—A $9.3 billion authorization to finance federal aid to education through June 30, 1970, with a prime aim of the legislation being improved educational opportunities for poor children;

—A record-low foreign aid bill of $2.29 billion—nearly $1 billion less than Johnson asked for.

Despite some big setbacks, Johnson did see some major legislation clear the Congress and he congratulated both houses "on a great job done."

The first session of the 90th Congress also increased postal rates, boosted federal employees' and military pay, strengthened air pollution control laws, set up a public broadcast corporation to aid noncommercial television, and tightened meat inspection laws.

But Congress declined to pass Johnson's proposed 10 percent income tax surcharge, his major anticrime bill, his civil rights proposals, his gun-control legislation, his election reform bill, or his "truth in lending" proposal.

Some of the President's recommendations attracted such little support that he did not push for action on them. They included measures to liberalize trade with Communist nations and to merge the labor and commerce departments.

Most legislators agreed that unhappiness over the war caused many of the administration's problems at the Capitol. This became clear early in the year when Johnson's budget revealed that many programs, such as school aid, were being financed far below the authorized amounts because of the military demands.

Big Problem in House

The President's big problems on his program came in the House, where Republicans had 47 more members than in the preceding Congress.

Debates on war policy consumed many hours. Most of the attacks on the President's course in Vietnam came from fellow Democrats. The Senate asked him in a unanimously adopted resolution to consider putting the war issue before the United Nations.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., one of the critics of the war, delivered one last speech Friday on the subject, expressing concern at reports the administration is considering a limited invasion of the North or a hot-potshot policy in which American forces would chase the enemy into Laos and Cambodia, where the Communists have sanctuaries.

Congratulated for Work

"I earnestly hope that no further expansion will come from the initiative or decisions of the United States," Cooper said.

A delegation of House leaders telephoned the President in the early evening to inform him it was ready to adjourn and, following tradition, he advised them he had no more business for the session to consider. Then he congratulated Congress for its work.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen performed the same task for their chamber.

The House was thrown into an uproar at the start of the 1967 session over seating of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y. He finally was denied his post after a committee found him guilty of misuse of public funds.

UCCC Viet Symposium

War 3 Threat Agreed

BY HUGH REYNOLDS

That United States presence in Vietnam, or lack of it, will lead to World War III was one of the few points agreed upon at a symposium on Vietnam at Ulster County Community College last night.

The panel discussion, held in the John Burroughs Science Building, was sponsored by the college's Social Science Club and had as its moderator, Professor Harry Matzen, a UCCC history teacher.

Panel members included G. Gordon Liddy, assistant district attorney in Dutchess County; UCCC economics professor Edward Nadel, former New Paltz professor John Garlock and Allan J. Warner, a 22-year retired Air Force veteran who had served in Vietnam. Garlock and Nadel opposed the Johnson administration's Vietnam policy while Liddy and Warner took a position in support of it.

Among the some 60 persons attending the symposium were members of the Ulster County Peace Committee led by Mrs. Sylvia Day.

Mrs. Day posed a question that two of the opponents, Liddy and Garlock, agreed upon. She asked them to comment on President Johnson's 1964 campaign statement that American troops would not be sent to fight an Asian war. In conjunction with the American escalation Mrs. Day also asked what fact precipitated that escalation.

Said Liddy, "I think President Johnson was somewhat less than candid with the American people in that campaign statement. I think the President intended to escalate when, in fact, he said he wasn't going to."

U.S. Planes Hit Heartland of North Vietnam Third Straight Day. See Story on Page 3.

Garlock was more direct when he said, "Yeah, Johnson lied. The fact that precipitated the escalation was Johnson's election."

The panelists were asked the results of U. S. presence in Vietnam, or lack of it. Both sides seemed to agree that a third world war, a nuclear war, was a definite possibility.

Patler Convicted

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — John Patler, ex-member of the American Nazi party, was convicted early today of first-degree murder in the shooting death of George Lincoln Rockwell, leader of the anti-Negro, anti-Jewish group.

An Arlington County Circuit Court jury returned the verdict as Patler, 29, sat ashen-faced at a table facing them. Judge Charles S. Russell said he would impose a sentence of 20 years imprisonment on Monday.

Rockwell was shot to death while getting into his car in the parking lot of an Arlington shopping center Aug. 25. Patler, an ex-Marine who had a falling out with Rockwell over Nazi party matters, was arrested shortly afterward.

State Teacher of Year

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Daniel P. Corr, who says he enjoys teaching so much he "would probably do it for nothing," is the New York State Teacher of the Year for 1968.

Corr, 58, who was named Friday, is a chemistry teacher and chairman of the science department at Columbia High School in nearby East Greenbush.

Some of his pupils have gone on to prominent careers, including Fred Levitt, a director of Dow Chemical Corp., and George Thompson of the NASA space program.

Constantine Balks

ROME (AP)—Greece's military dictatorship offered King Constantine the chance today to return to the throne he abandoned Wednesday after calling his nation into rebellion that never really got started. The condition of return, diplomatic sources said, was that he live "purely as a figurehead, with no powers."

The 27-year-old monarch was reported ready to refuse the terms, the Athens sources indicated, and was demanding instead that the government resign as a requirement for his coming back.

City Hall Beat

'Hot' Albany Rumor Ignited Garraghan to Propose City Sales Tax

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

"Holy Cow! Did you see that?" It was the reaction in most quarters (especially the businessmen) to the Council's swift passage of Garraghan's sales tax.

Whether it was a good move or not remains to be seen but it wasn't quite as swift as one might think.

The mayor, for one, has had this sales tax on his mind for some. There have been numerous Freeman articles in which he has been quoted as supporting it. What apparently ignited Ray was the red-hot rumor he heard at a Mayor's Conference meeting in Albany that Gov. Rockefeller also was casting a greedy eye at the sales tax.

Ray quickly marshalled his forces. . . the result we saw Monday night. This column received word late last week that Garraghan had 10 votes sewed up on the sales tax, maybe 11. Frankly, we couldn't believe that the mayor had the votes.

He's "had the votes" before, only to get shot down by the Council, providing there was a vote.

That was another thing. We didn't think the Council would act on the measure with only three days notice. After all, Garraghan's mayoral salary increase proposal has been lying around for seven months.

This whole sales tax situation and its outcome tends to knock a few holes in the theory that Raymond and THE THIRTEEN don't get along. Necessity is the mother of invention.

Another surprise at Monday's meeting, this one quite a bit milder, was the unanimous endorsement and standing ovation for Bud Lyle, city clerk.

We knew Lyle was held in high esteem in most quarters but a public, official endorsement of the type Bud received, and on a bi-partisan basis, is almost unprecedented.

Bud, who had put in a hard night reading 20 some pages of sales tax resolution, was visibly moved by the council's endorsement. It's a rare thing when a man is shown the appreciation Lyle was by the people he serves.

Perhaps race relations between white and black in the community don't have to be all that strained if indeed they are. Most of the major problems today undoubtedly started as small ones which could have been solved if communications lines were open. Witness Monday's NAACP meeting in the New Central Baptist Church on the Strand.

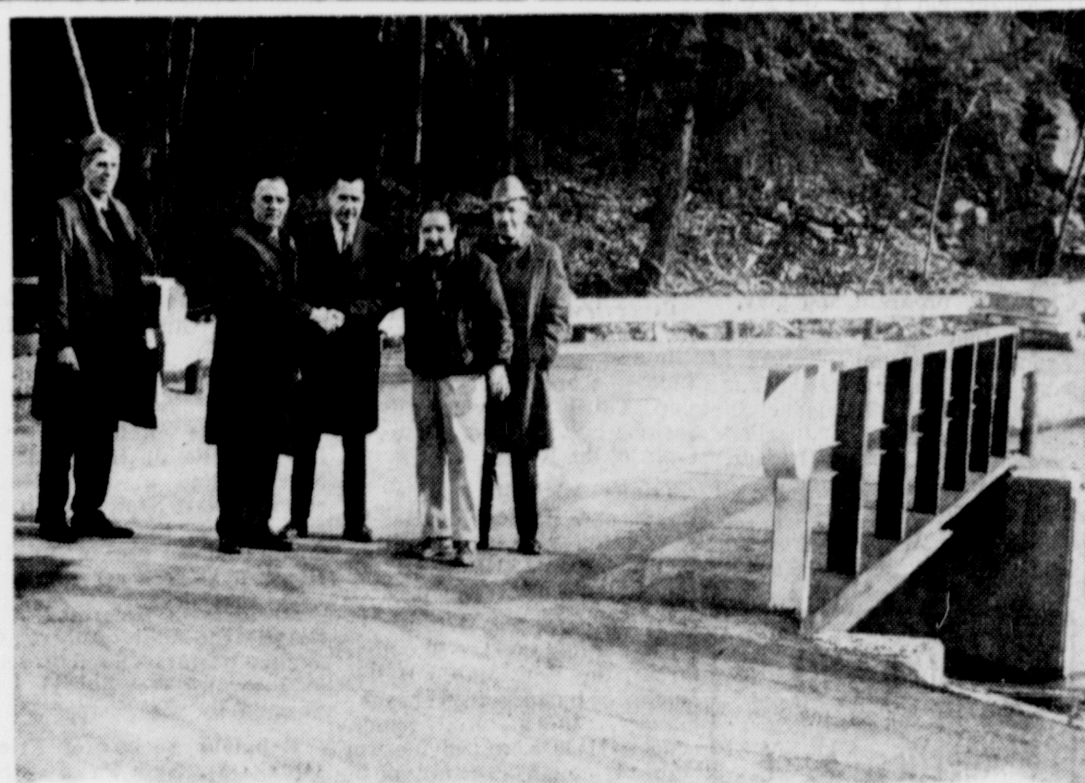

James Tobin gave an interesting talk on Kingston Schools consolidated. Tobin, as student personnel director, is in our opinion, an outstanding representative of the school system. His concern and enthusiasm for children and what Kingston schools can do for them is contagious. And he talks straight.

During the discussion period following Tobin's talk, a girl asked why the magazines Jet and Ebony were not available in the Kingston High School Library. She pointed out that most other major magazines were available but Ebony and Jet were not even though they enjoyed high popularity among some of the Negro students.

Tobin said he wasn't aware that the magazines weren't available but his answer left no doubt as to their future accessibility to high school students. He said, "We'll get them."

Surely this was no earth shaking request or concession, for that matter. But we think it shows if lines of communication are open problems can be solved.

NEW ESOPUS BRIDGE—A new bridge in the Town of Esopus, built by the Ulster County Department of Highways, was officially opened Friday. The 40-foot steel and concrete structure spans the Black Creek on Floyd Ackert Road west of the hamlet of West Park. Your Life and Mine

By CLYDE HERBERT SNELL, HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

Planes, buses and trains are getting ready again for the greatest season for travel of all the circling year. They are preparing to take innumerable folks home for Christmas. Soon there will be long lines at ticket windows, airline terminals will be crowded, bus stations jammed—and mostly with folks who will be traveling hither and yon with but one purpose in mind: they are journeying, some of them across many miles, in order to be with their own folks for this one special day of the year.

Who would attempt to deny that at no time of the year does home have more pull for us than as the Christmas season approaches? On other holidays, if we are away, we can endure the tug of home. But somehow it is different at the Yuletide. Then the pressure the heart puts on us to go home almost is unbearable.

Parents, of course, do all they can to encourage this kind of heart pressure. As another has expressed it: "No one tries harder than Mom and Dad to make it happen. They tempt with the promise of an overflowing supply of Yuletide delights and a house full of warmth and love. They affectionately maneuver, plead, and, if necessary, pay the way in order to bring the brood back to the homestead for the holidays." This kind of maneuvering is perfectly legitimate. It all is a part of the wonderful spirit of Christmas.

Some way, Christmas and home belong together. This season never is quite the same when spent in someone else's house. Others may show kindness and invite us into their homes. Such consideration is greatly appreciated. But no one who has been caught in circumstances which made it impossible to get home for Christmas ever would pretend that nothing was lacking. No matter how kind and thoughtful friends may be, still there is a deep down feeling bordering on sadness in the heart that has to spend Christmas in some place other than home.

Those of you who this year must spend Christmas away from home do not have to shape up any apology for the tinge of sadness in the season for you. The feeling is there: who could deny it? It is real—and honorable! If the thought causes a secret tear, let it fall unabashed. The God who gave us both Christmas and homes must rejoice when we long, more than anything else, to spend Christmas in homes.

"Always the heart goes home on Christmas Eve..." Goes silently across a continent, Or mountains or the sea. A heart will leave

The glitter of a city street, And sent By something deep and timeless, find the way

To a little cottage on a country hill.

And even if the little cottage may Have disappeared, a heart will find it still...

—Grace V. Watkins

OTHER WISE — Ralph Hillis, Michael Bushnell and Judy Wright rehearse scene from 'The Other Wise Man', which will be presented at Clinton Avenue Methodist Church Friday, Dec. 22, at 8 p. m. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Rehearse for Holiday Play

The Other Wise Man, Henry Van Dyke's classic Christmas story is in the final stages of preparation by the young people of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church.

The play, adapted from the short story by Mrs. Oscar Newkirk, will be presented in the church sanctuary on Friday, Dec. 22, at 8 p. m.

Taking the role of Artaban, the "other" wise man, is Michael Bushnell. The story depicts Artaban's struggles and long searching to find the Christ Child and lay his treasures before him.

Others appearing in the cast are Mark Ohlson, Thomas Pape, Victor Osborne, Mark Lanier, Judy Wright, Ralph Hillis, Philip Studwell, Debbie McIntosh, Steven Langton, Dorothy Metcalf and Pat Franz. Sue Lanspary and Roger Ohlson will narrate. In addition a chorus of girls will accompany the story.

The costumes are being prepared by Mrs. Earl Wright and Mrs. Harold Pine. Miss Linda Giles is in charge of props and make-up. Mrs. Edna Rignall will be organist. The play is being directed by Mrs. William Studwell and produced by Mrs. Newkirk and Mrs. Bea Edwards.

White Christmas Gift Service Slated Sunday

The 12th annual White Christmas service, sponsored by the church school of the First Presbyterian Church, Elmendorf Street and Tremper Avenue, will be held Wednesday 7:30 p. m. in the church sanctuary.

Featuring the program will be a pageant in four scenes, entitled The Light Is Come by Wilma M. Minter, Helen Shults, superintendent of school, directs the pageant, assisted by Joyce Wert, Elizabeth Askue, and other members of staff. Each department of school, nursery through senior, plays a role in the presentation.

Nursery-Kindergarten will sing Away In A Manger; the Primary will give two recitations from script, Hear, O Israel, and Make A Joyful Noise; Juniors will sing Go Tell It To The Mountains; Junior High will give family representations; and Seniors will present candlelighting ceremony.

Interspersed with pageant, seven carols are sung by congregation; and Diane Van Aken, soprano, will offer solo, What Child Is This?, accompanied at the organ by Miss Edna Merrihew, organist and choir director.

The four scenes to be depicted in pageant are: The Family; Visit of Mary to Elizabeth, in pantomime; The Manger scene; and Disciples Light Candles.

A free will offering is to be received in white envelopes, given out as people enter church. The offering will go toward the ministry of La Marina Neighborhood House, Mayaguez, Puerto Rico, a mission station of the Board of National Missions, to which the school is contributing for the fifth successive year. Immediately following the service, the pupils, teachers and congregation leave the sanctuary for annual Santa Claus festivities in lower hall of adjoining Ramsey building.

The public may share in this Christmas program.

Your Life and Mine

By CLYDE HERBERT SNELL
HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

Planes, buses and trains are getting ready again for the greatest season for travel of all the circling year. They are preparing to take innumerable folks home for Christmas. Soon there will be long lines at ticket windows, airline terminals will be crowded, bus stations jammed—and mostly with folks who will be traveling either and you with but one purpose in mind: they are journeying, some of them across many miles, in order to be with their own folks for this one special day of the year.

Who would attempt to deny that at no time of the year does home have more pull for us than as the Christmas season approaches? On other holidays, if we are away, we can endure the tug of home. But somehow it is different at the Yuletide. Then the pressure the heart puts on us to go home almost is unbearable.

Parents, of course, do all they can to encourage this kind of heart pressure. As another has expressed it: "No one tries harder than Mom and Dad to make it happen. They tempt with the promise of an overflowing supply of Yuletide delights and a house full of warmth and love. They affectionately maneuver, plead, and, if necessary, pay the way in order to bring the brood back to the homestead for the holidays." This kind of maneuvering is perfectly legitimate. It all is a part of the wonderful spirit of Christmas.

Some way, Christmas and home belong together. This season never is quite the same when spent in someone else's house. Others may show kind homes and invite us into their homes. Such consideration is greatly appreciated. But no one who has been caught in circumstances which made it impossible to get home for Christmas ever would pretend that nothing was lacking. No matter how kind and thoughtful friends may be, still there is a deep down feeling bordering on sadness in the heart that has to spend Christmas in some place other than home.

Those of you who this year must spend Christmas away from home do not have to shape up any apology for the tinge of sadness in the season for you. The feeling is there: who could deny it? It is real—and honorable! If the thought causes a secret tear, let it fall unabashed. The God who gave us both Christmas and a home must rejoice when we long, more than anything else, to spend Christmas in homes.

"Always the heart goes home on Christmas Eve..."

Goes silently across a continent, Or mountains or the sea. A heart will leave

The glitter of a city street, and sent

By something deep and timeless, find the way

To a little cottage on a country hill.

And even if the little cottage may Have disappeared, a heart will find it still..."

—Grace V. Watkins

Planes Pound North's Spans, Rail Centers

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes bombed North Vietnam's heavily defended heartland for the third straight day today, taking advantage of an unseasonable break in the weather to pound the Hanoi and Haiphong bridges and rail centers vital to the movement of supplies southward.

119 Missions

The air war erupted in full fury Thursday after a month-long lull forced by bad weather. Initial reports of today's raids were sketchy but headquarters said they were again directed at the rail choke points on the routes running from Red China to the Hanoi-Haiphong area and thence south.

Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots mounted 119 missions Friday, the highest total since late October. Today's raids were believed equally heavy.

The U.S. Command said full scale bombing of North Vietnam will continue so long as the weather remains clear. It's an all-out effort to slow the movement of supplies southward.

A special Christmas Eve candlelight service will be held at the Methodist Church of Shady Side, Dec. 24, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The choir will decorate the church for the holiday season and will travel from home to home on Christmas Eve, following the service, to sing carols to the people of the community.

Alliance Play Stresses Truth Of Christmas

The Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, 90 Miller's Lane, Kingston, will present its annual Christmas program and play, according to the pastor, the Rev. George B. Osborne. The time will be Sunday, 6:30 p.m.

Highlighting the evening will be a three act play entitled, "To Hear the Angels Sing," presented by youth and young adults of the church. The theme of the play is a home that has almost lost the true meaning of Christmas by becoming too involved and busy.

Following the program, refreshments will be served in the lower auditorium. The public may attend.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, Dec. 16, the 350th day of 1967. There are 15 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1773, American colonists disguised as Indians boarded a British ship in Boston Harbor and dumped 342 chests of tea overboard. The protest went down in history as the Boston Tea Party.

On this date:

In 1770, the German composer, Ludwig Van Beethoven, was born.

In 1809, Napoleon Bonaparte was divorced from Josephine.

In 1835, a fire in New York City burned some 600 buildings.

In 1916, Gregory Rasputin, the monk who wielded powerful influence over the Russian czar, was murdered.

In 1942, during World War II, Allied planes pounded retreating Axis forces in Libya.

In 1960, two airliners crashed after colliding over New York Harbor. One hundred and thirty-one persons were killed.

Ten years ago: President Dwight D. Eisenhower addressed a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Paris, promising instant and forceful U.S. support in the event of war with the Soviet Union.

Five years ago: U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy was on a diplomatic mission to Brazil.

One year ago: The U.N. Security Council invoked economic sanctions against the white minority government in Rhodesia.

vacuum" if the United States withdrew. He said the Chinese would eventually take over Southeast Asia. He said, "If we withdraw, where do we withdraw to? San Diego, eventually?"

Warner quoted John F. Kennedy, then a senator in a 1956 statement in which the late president said Vietnam was the keystone in Southeast Asia and if it fell, the whole area would go to the Communists. He also asked what would be the fate of 17,000,000 South Vietnamese, especially those actively supporting the Saigon government, after withdrawal.

Disputes Domino Theory

Garlock disputed the domino theory, that which presupposes that if Vietnam falls, the rest of Asia (and the world) would follow, offering what he termed a reverse domino theory. In effect, he stated that the Russians and/or Chinese are just as concerned about the spread of capitalism under American domination as Americans are about the spread of Communism under Russian and/or Chinese domination.

Neither Garlock nor Nadel accepted the domino theory which they said is based on worldwide communism under central control. They maintained that nationalism is stronger than either capitalism or communism. It was argued that the United States is fighting against a peoples' revolution in South Vietnam, not communist takeover.

Minimize Consequences

The opponents of the Johnson Administration minimized the consequences of a communist Vietnam to American security. They also doubted Red Chinese takeover of Vietnam in the case of American withdrawal. At the same time, Vietnam and China had been natural enemies for more than a thousand years.

Nadel did not minimize the possibility of conflict with China if the United States elected to remain in Vietnam, especially if the war were further escalated.

Said Nadel, "The Chinese can no more ignore 500,000 American troops in South Vietnam than America could ignore a half a million Chinese troops in Mexico."

Liddy said he doubted the possibility of Chinese intervention if the U.S. remains in Vietnam. He said, "for one thing, the Chinese would have serious logistic problems in a war in Vietnam."

The history of Vietnam was reviewed in seeking an answer as to why the United States is currently fighting there. The Geneva agreement of 1954 came under heavy discussion.

Under the agreement, following French defeat at the hands of Viet Minh, the country was divided at the 17th Parallel as it remains today. Free elections were supposed to take place in 1956.

Nadel termed the splitting of the country an "artificial separation" and that South Vietnam is not an independent state.

Liddy claimed there was aggression from the north immediately following the Geneva accord which continues today. He claimed that the north expressed intentions to unify the country under Communists' control after the '54 agreement and that numerous North Vietnamese troops were left in the south.

Nadel said aggression from the north began after the American bombing of the north in February of 1965 and that before that fighting was carried out by South Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

On Negotiations

The subject of negotiations came up, especially alleged United States refusal to bargain with the Viet Cong or their political arm, the National Liberation Front. Garlock's theory on that was that the United States will not negotiate with the NLF because by doing so it would be admitting that aggression, if any, was not from an outside source (China or North Vietnam) but from an internal source since most parties agree that the NLF is comprised primarily of South Vietnamese.

Garlock perhaps summed up the meeting when he said that Vietnam is not an issue that lends itself to rational, calm discourse. The opponent of the Vietnam War added that there is nothing rational about United States involvement in Southeast Asia.

By way of sidelights, Liddy, an announced candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the 28th District said his support grows stronger every day and he has "found response very encouraging."

Logan for Resnick

On the other side of the congressional fence, John Logan, Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick's district representative, took exception to what he termed "slurs" against the Ellenville Democrat. The question was raised as to why Resnick did not appear to defend the Johnson administration or at least send a representative.

Logan said his office was notified only Tuesday that a representative was requested and could not comply in such a short time. "You all know where the congressman is," Logan concluded. Resnick is currently in South Vietnam on his annual Christmas visit to the troops.

NHRR Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has announced more than $28 million in federal funds will be provided to "keep" the New Haven Railroad running but warned the aid offers no permanent solution for the crisis-ridden line.

Ridiculous, Spada Says on Binding Fee

A budget figure of $86,000 for book binding coming from the county preliminary budget which up to today is still top secret was termed ridiculous.

There is no such figure, according to County Clerk Albert Spada, who should know about such things. The figure has been kicked around town and Spada thought it was about time that the record was put straight.

The only item for $86,000 that I know of, said Spada is a contract for making microfilms of some of the old deeds, some of the oldest in the county vaults.

However, the microfilming cost has been spread over a three-year period, and only $28,000 would be in the new budget, he said.

Driver Charged

A South Manor Avenue man was charged with drunken driving following an accident last night on Cornell Street, police said. Police said the accused, David Lindsay of 109 South Manor Avenue, rammed the side of an auto pulling out from the Mid-City Bowling Lanes. The struck car was operated by Robert C. Myers of 170 Fairview Avenue. Myers escaped injury, police said. Reports indicate Lindsay was traveling north on Cornell Street. He appeared in city court today and pleaded innocent. His case has been adjourned until next Saturday.

Bench Warrant Due

A bench warrant for the arrest of a woman accused of driving without a license was forthcoming, police said today, noting the lady didn't show up for a scheduled court appearance this morning. The woman, Ann Mae Henderson, who told officers her home was the Stuyvesant Hotel, was charged yesterday with driving without license. She was arrested after an accident at the intersection of North Street and Delaware Avenue. According to police, the Henderson woman's car collided with a vehicle operated by Werner W. Jacob of High Falls. Authorities said the Jacob auto was parked near the curb at the intersection. Police said Jacob's vehicle was about to enter traffic when the accident occurred.

Mail Theft Charged

John Teague, 65, New York City, accused of petit larceny, pleaded innocent this morning and had his case adjourned until Tuesday. Teague, who listed his home as 317 West 42nd Street, was arrested by police yesterday afternoon on the Boulevard near the T.B. Hospital. Officers said Teague had been spotted stealing mail from area mailboxes.

Measure Strips State Of Most Lottery Outlets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Johnson signed a bill Friday stripping New York of most of its sales outlets for the state lottery.

The signing came on the heels of a report in Albany, N.Y., that lottery sales in November dipped to $5,446,639, a decline of $546,756 in the $1 tickets from the previous month.

The measure signed by the President would prohibit federally insured banks and savings and loan associations from selling the tickets, effective April 1. Such institutions sell the bulk of the lottery tickets.

The New York State Tax Department said in Albany that November sales dropped "unusually" throughout the state. New York City dropped from 4,040,000 in October to 3,643,919 in November. Other significant drops were recorded in Buffalo, Albany, Syracuse and on Long Island.

To pep up the sales, the department is conducting a statewide advertising campaign to promote the lottery tickets as Christmas gifts. Advertising is being shifted from billboards to newspaper display ads.

The newspaper ads publicize the tickets as a "100,000 gift certificate."

A department spokesman said the education angle "hasn't been entirely neglected, but we are shifting to a fresh selling approach."

Drug Roundup Corrals 13 in 4-Day Period

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. and Canadian authorities have now arrested 13 persons over a four-day period in the roundup of an international narcotics smuggling ring.

Four were seized in Grand Central Terminal here on Friday and two Frenchmen Thursday. Two other men were picked up Thursday night as they crossed the Canadian border at Rouses Point, N.Y.

Canadian police earlier arrested six other alleged members of the ring in Montreal, and another arrest was made in Boston.

Some 176 pounds of heroin were confiscated during the roundup, authorities said. Its estimated worth on the illegal market is $2 million at wholesale, and many millions more when cut and diluted for retail sale, they said.

Friday, Alfonso Vives, 34, and his wife, Ana Maria, 32, both of Buenos Aires were arrested in Grand Central Terminal while carrying 15 kilograms — about 33 pounds — of uncut heroin in two false-bottom bags, according to Asst. U.S. Atty. William M. Tandy.

Customs agents picked up two other alleged couriers, Francisco Paraja-Box, 45, and Cirio Calde, 48, at Rouses Point also carrying 5 kilograms of heroin in false-bottom luggage. Both also gave Buenos Aires as their hometown.

Two men arrested at Grand Central earlier Thursday were identified as Pascal Grandi, 53, and Haigaz Vartanian, 42, both Corsicans. Trained by customs men from the Canadian border at Rouses Point, Grandi led the agents to Vartanian at the New York railroad terminal, Tandy said. Both men are residents of Marseilles, France.

Planes Pound North's Spans, Rail Centers

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes bombed North Vietnam's heavily defended heartland for the third straight day today, taking advantage of an unseasonable break in the weather to pound the Hanoi and Haiphong bridges and rail centers vital to the movement of supplies southward.

119 Missions
The air war erupted in full fury Thursday after a month-long lull forced by bad weather. Initial reports of today's raids were sketchy but headquarters said they were again directed at the rail choke points on the routes running from Red China to the Hanoi-Haiphong area and thence south.

Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots mounted 119 missions Friday, the highest total since late October. Today's raids were believed equally heavy.

The U.S. Command said full scale bombing of North Vietnam will continue so long as the weather remains clear. It's an all-out effort to slow the movement of supplies southward while the chance lasts. Clear spells in the monsoon season are normally infrequent, and the rainy season should prevail for another five months.

Priority targets during the weather break have been the Hanoi and Haiphong bridges. The U.S. Command said that raids Friday dropped the center span of Haiphong's main highway bridge and pilots put at least one 3,000-pound bomb directly on the Kien An rail bridge on Haiphong's southern outskirts. Also hit was the vital Canal des Rapides Bridge just above Hanoi.

These, along with Hanoi's big Doumer Bridge, bombed Thursday, are probably the four most important bridges in North Vietnam.

Extra Planes
To counter formidable enemy anti-aircraft and surface-to-air missile defense systems in the Hanoi and Haiphong areas, extra planes went along Friday to attack anti-aircraft sites and duel MIG interceptors. No MIGs were reported downed Friday but one was claimed Thursday.

The Communists claimed they shot down a total of seven American planes Thursday and Friday. The U.S. Command has acknowledged only the loss Thursday of an F105 Thunderchief which went down in raids on Hanoi.

On the ground in South Vietnam several sharp clashes were reported.

Ridiculous, Spada Says on Binding Fee

A budget figure of $86,000 for book binding coming from the county preliminary budget which up to today is still top secret was termed ridiculous.

There is no such figure or item, according to County Clerk Albert Spada, who should know about such things. The figure has been kicked around town and Spada thought it was about time that the record was put straight.

The only item for $86,000 that I know of, said Spada, is a contract for making microfilms of some of the old deeds, some of the oldest in the county vaults.

However, the microfilming costs have been spread over a three-year period, and only $28,000 would be in the new budget, he said.

Planes Pound North's Spans, Rail Centers

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes bombed North Vietnam's heavily defended heartland for the third straight day today, taking advantage of an unseasonable break in the weather to pound the Hanoi and Haiphong bridges and rail centers vital to the movement of supplies southward.

119 Missions
The air war erupted in full fury Thursday after a month-long lull forced by bad weather. Initial reports of today's raids were sketchy but headquarters said they were again directed at the rail choke points on the routes running from Red China to the Hanoi-Haiphong area and thence south.

Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots mounted 119 missions Friday, the highest total since late October. Today's raids were believed equally heavy.

The U.S. Command said full scale bombing of North Vietnam will continue so long as the weather remains clear. It's an all-out effort to slow the movement of supplies southward while the chance lasts. Clear spells in the monsoon season are normally infrequent, and the rainy season should prevail for another five months.

Priority targets during the weather break have been the Hanoi and Haiphong bridges. The U.S. Command said that raids Friday dropped the center span of Haiphong's main highway bridge and pilots put at least one 3,000-pound bomb directly on the Kien An rail bridge on Haiphong's southern outskirts. Also hit was the vital Canal des Rapides Bridge just above Hanoi.

These, along with Hanoi's big Doumer Bridge, bombed Thursday, are probably the four most important bridges in North Vietnam.

Extra Planes
To counter formidable enemy anti-aircraft and surface-to-air missile defense systems in the Hanoi and Haiphong areas, extra planes went along Friday to attack anti-aircraft sites and duel MIG interceptors. No MIGs were reported downed Friday but one was claimed Thursday.

The Communists claimed they shot down a total of seven American planes Thursday and Friday. The U.S. Command has acknowledged only the loss Thursday of an F105 Thunderchief which went down in raids on Hanoi.

On the ground in South Vietnam several sharp clashes were reported.

Measure Strips State Of Most Lottery Outlets
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
President Johnson signed a bill Friday stripping New York of most of its sales outlets for the state lottery.

The signing came on the heels of a report in Albany, N.Y., that lottery sales in November dipped to $5,446,639, a decline of $46,756 in the $1 tickets from the previous month.

The measure signed by the President would prohibit federally insured banks and savings and loan associations from selling the tickets, effective April 1. Such institutions sell the bulk of the lottery tickets.

The New York State Tax Department said in Albany that November sales dropped "unusually" throughout the state. New York City dropped from 4,040,000 in October to 3,643,919 in November. Other significant drops were recorded in Buffalo, Albany, Syracuse and on Long Island.

To pep up the sales, the department is conducting a statewide advertising campaign to promote the lottery tickets as Christmas gifts. Advertising is being shifted from billboards to newspaper display ads.

The newspaper ads publicize the tickets as a "$100,000 gift certificate."

A department spokesman said the education agency "hasn't been entirely neglected, but we are shifting to a fresh selling approach."

Poor Rural Americans

Stating that this nation has been largely oblivious to the 14 million impoverished people left behind in rural America, President Johnson named Gov. Edward T. Breathitt of Kentucky in September of 1966 to head a 25-member commission on rural poverty. The commission reported September last, but its report has just been made public without explanation.

It may be that the report's call for a revolutionary plan for guaranteed federal employment and massive birth control was too explosive to release at a time when the Administration was fighting for economy in government spending. Now that it is released, the Cabinet committee on rural poverty says that although not all recommendations are feasible, the general thrust of the recommendations are endorsed.

The recommendations are that poor farm people get the same treatment as poor people in cities; that the Government establish priority legislation and appropriations to see that poor rural people get jobs and manpower policies be overhauled to train poor people for jobs; that the food stamp program be changed to enable poor people to get stamps free to bolster diets; that rural educational services be upgraded, community health centers be established and rural housing program undertaken; that new federal grant program and subsidies for developing rural areas be launched, present programs for the rural poor strengthened and farm program relating to the poor be re-examined.

Contrary to a common misconception, the committee found that whites outnumber non-whites among the rural poor by a wide margin, though a high proportion of Negroes in the rural South and of Indians on the reservations are destitute. Perhaps the most persuasive observation the committee made was that the big city riots last summer had their roots in rural poverty. Those who escaped from the country too often were disillusioned in the cities.

Christmas Tree Safety

The Christmas tree, be it fir, spruce or pine, has been taken from its natural home in the woods, where it was bathed in sunshine and able to absorb nutrients and moisture from the soil. In our home, this annual visitor is expected to withstand heat and extended periods of dryness.

Although the glistening evergreen is not as vulnerable to fire as it used to be when candles were used, it still remains a great hazard. Fortunately, it can be minimized if householders will take sensible precautions.

The location of the tree is important; it should be kept away from areas of heavy traffic in the home and away from radiators. The wiring of the tree lights should be checked with care to forestall short circuits. Decorations that might catch fire easily should be discarded. The tree's stump should be cut diagonally and placed in water. Following these simple rules will help to keep the holiday a happy one.

It is one of life's small, cruel ironies that the Christmas tree, the very symbol of joy in this most joyous season, can also become a focal point of tragedy.

Pedestrian Safety

In the hustle and bustle of Christmas shopping in local stores, pedestrians intent on securing gifts and with arms loaded with packages sometimes forget all about safety precautions in parking areas and when crossing streets.

Automobile drivers must keep their cars under control at all times with respect to conditions prevailing, but pedestrians all too often render compliance an impossibility even for the most conscientious motorist.

Pedestrians also must assume responsibility and obey traffic regulations and above all use common sense. The most obvious and direct controllable violations of common sense are jaywalking and ignoring signals. Otherwise, sensible people in their shopping enthusiasm become violators.

It is well for shoppers to remember that when police enforce the local traffic laws they are trying to save the pedestrians from themselves.

Allen Shivers, former Governor of Texas, now president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, puts the blame for inflation squarely on the administration of fellow Texan Lyndon B. Johnson. He said more excessive wage demands and more government spending are the culprits, as few would deny.

With farm surpluses of recent years nearly gone, Senator Mike Monroney, Oklahoma Democrat, wants government financing of producer-owned and controlled emergency reserves of essential foods. They would guard against serious drought, natural disaster or military emergency.

'Let's Make This a Nice, Friendly Little Game!'

David Lawrence Says LBJ's Partisan Speech At AFL-CIO Meeting

WASHINGTON — President Johnson doesn't often make mistakes in the realm of politics, and if he had the advice of a good "public-relations" man, he probably would not have made the kind of partisan speech he delivered at the AFL-CIO convention in Miami this week.

The President had a right to discuss any question he pleased, but he would have been on sound ground if he had avoided political partisanship and confined himself to a commendation of the AFL-CIO for its patriotic resolution of support for the American cause in the Vietnam war.

It was worthwhile, indeed, for the President to call attention to the endorsement of the government's policy in Southeast Asia as proclaimed by the largest labor organization in the world. It means a good deal in other countries where labor plays an important role, too. The fact that the nation's unions are behind the government's course in Vietnam is significant, and Mr. Johnson was wise in stressing it.

The President had every reason to assail critics of the Vietnam war. Because in these passages of his speech he did not single out Democrats or Republicans. But when he coupled this with a political attack on the Republican party on domestic issues, he was weakening his position. He said:

"The only time they (the Republicans) really said, 'yes,' an enthusiastic 'yes,' was when they could vote to recommit a good bill — to bury it in a blanket of rhetoric beneath the wave of Republican reaction. But they are not fooling anybody, are they?"

"The people know that the old Republican buggy can go only one way and that is backwards, downhill."

"The only program that that Grand Old Party offers is the remains of what they backed into and what they have run over on the road, the bits and pieces of what somebody else has built."

Mr. Johnson said that "labor's leadership" had helped make Congress "productive," and he urged that labor work to replace what he called "Republican may-sayers" with Democrats such as those who "helped write the historic legislative record of the 89th Congress." He declared:

"And we are going to have to work. We are going to have to roll up our sleeves and put our shoulder to the wheel — every man get to work and work through next November."

The president had the benefit of nationwide television audiences when he made his address at Miami. Naturally the Republican leaders in Congress have demanded of the three national networks equal time to answer what they term a "partisan and political speech" to the AFL-CIO convention.

If a Republican president had appeared before the National Association of Manufacturers and sought the campaign help of businessmen as he denounced the Democratic party, this would have been regarded by labor as a blunder deserving impeachment at the polls.

Mr. Johnson's conspicuous alliance with union labor on domestic issue raises the question of how the executive branch of the government can deal equitably with the many problems that arise involving labor-management relations—as, for instance, wage and price controls. Mr. Johnson boasted that the United States is fighting a war "for the first time in American history without any wage or without any price controls."

He spoke of voluntary restraints having made involuntary curbs unnecessary. The truth of the matter is that the wage-price "spiral," to which the president referred in passing, is getting more acute every day. Mr. Johnson realizes the seriousness of the situation, but he has not yet recommended any remedy except to leave it to both labor and management to hold down wages and prices in their own way.

What is even more important is that if wage and price controls are imposed, business management now may be inclined to have little confidence in the impartiality of the agencies entrusted with the task of administering the regulations issued. When a president of the United States enters publicly into an obviously political identification with a large labor-union organization, businessmen become suspicious. They begin to feel that appointments to governmental agencies dealing with labor-management relations will not be based upon merit or objectivity or independence of judgment on the part of the individual chosen but upon the political affiliation of the administration with the labor-union movement.

I know of no important banker who does not agree that, beyond an increase in exports and Washington's immediate application of financial responsibility to budget affairs, the following program is absolutely required:

(1) Our foreign assets must be marshaled. The Washington Robin Hoods of the Red Ink are great spenders but bad collectors. The billions in debts owed and overdue from debtor nations that now somehow call themselves creditors must be collected from all like France, Belgium, Austria, etc., able to pay them. I gave a recap of these assets in a recent article.

(2) The total U. S. Government (i.e., taxpayers) dollars that lay accumulated abroad in foreign currencies, called "counterpart funds," exceed $2.8 billion. Yet this asset remains largely neglected.

The great bonanza arises from commodities and goods our government has sold abroad—chiefly agricultural products under Public Law 480—which have ballooned the funds like a bloated balloon gone berserk. The catch is that the payment money must be spent inside the countries.

Official junketeers, free-loading bureaucrats and whatnot tap these funds on trips abroad—free. There are many legitimate uses made but the over-all result is a world-wide scandal occasionally spoken about in the newspapers but never stopped.

Some such funds are also restricted by treaties that should be negotiated. Former Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson proposed their renegotiation but his proposal was killed when he left that post and the

Drew Pearson Says Percy's $100,000 Expense Dashes White House Hopes

WASHINGTON — You can cross one Republican hopeful for President of the United States off the list—namely, eager-beaver young Sen. Chuck Percy of Illinois. The personable and promising young hopeful has cooked his own Presidential goose with his $100,000 so-called "office expense fund."

The issue is extremely important. It highlights the fact that a United States Senator is supposed to serve all the people of his state, not be influenced, indirectly or otherwise, by a few who contribute to his personal expenses.

Explaining his outside fund, Sen. Percy said: "The allowances are simply inadequate. You can't possibly maintain on a Senate allowance an adequate office for a state as large as Illinois."

The interesting fact, however, is that the man whom Percy defeated, ex-Sen. Paul Douglas, did.

Douglas not only operated his office without help from private friends, but he did one of the best jobs of representing the state of Illinois in the last 50 years.

The Washington office allowance for an Illinois Senator is $260,100 a year for hiring stenographers and assistants, which ain't hay, plus another $2,400 for an office in Illinois; plus 300 long-distance phone calls a month; plus $3,000 for stationery; plus various other items such as radio and television tapes at cost.

While Sen. Percy claims this is "simply inadequate," Sen. Douglas not only managed, but to show how he managed he filed a disclosure of his assets and income every year with the Clerk of the Senate.

One Senator Managed His chief outside source of income for 1966 was a modest $8,285.07 for book royalties, magazine articles and lecture fees. In addition he received dividends of $2,067.95; annuities from the University of Chicago of $2,270.28; annuities from teachers' insurance—Douglas used to be an economics professor —$793.14; and interest, $61.52.

On top of this he had his Senate salary — the same amount as Senator Percy — of $30,000.

Sen. Douglas carefully tabulated his expenses as follows: He spent $864.56 on travel, for which he was reimbursed in 1966; $1,350 for office expenses, for which he was also reimbursed; and in 1966 he had unused stationery allowance of $170.54.

He was not reimbursed, however, for a much larger amount, namely $7,919.69 for additional travel, office expenses in Illinois and the cost of living in the District of Columbia. Meticulously Douglas listed such expenses as subscriptions to six weekly papers in Illinois and ten downstate daily newspapers that, together with telephones, telegrams, golden and silver wedding anniversary presents, birthday presents, made a total of $1,172 in 1966.

In addition, he spent $1,505 in contributions to political organizations and political candidates. He said this was necessary almost every year.

Douglas also spent $3,413.31 on radio and television programs which he said were necessary in order to keep in touch with people of the state. He paid for these himself, though he got them at cost from the Capitol Hill TV and radio stations.

Senators Pay Taxes Too Out of Douglas's $30,000 Senate salary he had to pay an income tax of $5,442, plus $1,000 local property tax, plus a $2,000 contribution to his retirement fund.

Douglas found that letters from his constituents averaged about a thousand a day, and employed "3½ people" in his Chicago office to take care of his mail, in addition to his staff in Washington.

When all these expenses were added together and deducted from his Senate income, both salary and expenses, Douglas had as take-home pay in 1966 approximately $8,896.42.

Douglas filed his financial statement with the Clerk of the Senate every year, but his last statement to the people of Illinois, December 28, 1966, is especially interesting. It began: "This is the last report I will make to the citizens of Illinois since, as you know, I was defeated for reelection on November 8 by a very decisive margin."

After thanking the people of Illinois for the "opportunity they gave me of trying to serve them for 18 years," Douglas said: "I have a final duty to perform and that is to make a report on my income and political expenditures for the last year of 1966."

"It is obvious," concluded Douglas, "that it would have been very difficult to stay in public life were it not for the lectures which I give and the articles which I write and which last year, together with royalties on my books, brought in $8,285.07."

This is a long way from the $100,000 privately-raised fund which Sen. Percy claims is completely ethical and absolutely necessary to run his office.

Said ex-Sen. Douglas, the man whom Percy defeated: "Speaking only for myself, I find the salary paid to Senators to be fair and adequate if one is able and willing to live a modest personal life."

Henry J. Taylor Says

Foreign Assets Must Be Marshaled

There's no Alfred Hitchcock-mystery about the correctives required in our gold crisis. They're clear as a bell. We're where we are because President Johnson, like President Kennedy before him, has failed to take the obvious steps that did not seem to them "good politics."

Politics has ruled the gold roost as personal desire rules when a doctor finds tuberculosis and tells the ailing patient to quit smoking. "Cure me, Doc," he answers, "but I won't quit smoking."

The New Frontier-Great Society inherited a U. S. gold reserve of $21 billion. In only a few days during the recent British blowup we lost $475 million, the largest gold loss since the U. S. paid $448 million by its subscription to the newly formed International Monetary Fund in February, 1947.

This latest loss knocked our total gold stock down to $12.4 billion, another near 30-year low.

I know of no important banker who does not agree that, beyond an increase in exports and Washington's immediate application of financial responsibility to budget affairs, the following program is absolutely required:

(1) Our foreign assets must be marshaled. The Washington Robin Hoods of the Red Ink are great spenders but bad collectors. The billions in debts owed and overdue from debtor nations that now somehow call themselves creditors must be collected from all like France, Belgium, Austria, etc., able to pay them. I gave a recap of these assets in a recent article.

(2) The total U. S. Government (i.e., taxpayers) dollars that lay accumulated abroad in foreign currencies, called "counterpart funds," exceed $2.8 billion. Yet this asset remains largely neglected.

The great bonanza arises from commodities and goods our government has sold abroad—chiefly agricultural products under Public Law 480—which have ballooned the funds like a bloated balloon gone berserk. The catch is that the payment money must be spent inside the countries.

Official junketeers, free-loading bureaucrats and whatnot tap these funds on trips abroad—free. There are many legitimate uses made but the over-all result is a world-wide scandal occasionally spoken about in the newspapers but never stopped.

Some such funds are also restricted by treaties that should be negotiated. Former Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson proposed their renegotiation but his proposal was killed when he left that post and the New Frontier took over. Yet —hey! that's our money!

(3) The Treasury confirms that it costs us $7,265 a year to keep one fighting man in Western Europe. That's a neat little $2.2 billion annual strain on our balance of payments, which is merely a soft name for our gold crisis. When we should bring most of them home, or how many, is a complex question. But one thing is sure. We should have brought their dependents home long ago.

Almost a million dependents of the military and of U. S. government agencies remain abroad—not only at the expense of the gold crisis but of the American taxpayers. Non-military dependents abroad alone exceed 325,000.

The Defense Department insists that dependents are kept overseas for military morale purposes, and mentions hardship posts—which is understandable. Yet I find from the official rolls that only about 2,000 out of the 450,000 dependents with our servicemen overseas are in Korea — a truly hardship post. More than half of the 450,000 are in West Germany, Italy, Spain, England and 12 other European countries. Hardship posts? And if Canada, Rio de Janeiro, Bermuda, etc., are hardship posts so was the Garden of Eden. In some communities the dependents far outnumber our servicemen on duty.

A full seven years ago, just before the New Frontier-Great Society took over, the Defense Department ordered servicemen's dependents home in order to stop the enormous dollar drain. But one of President Kennedy's first official acts was to make political hay by countering the unpopular directive.

This typifies the kind of thing we could not then, and certainly can no longer, afford. No one big idea is going to overcome the gold crisis. The gold problem is like a tapestry. You see the picture, but it actually consists of many, many threads. You cannot change the picture unless you change the threads.

Washington must attack on all fronts, which is exactly what the Robin Hoods of the Red Ink have failed to do.

A Plea for the Helpless
Editor, The Freeman:

No Christmas scene is complete without a group of humble animals paying tribute to the Christ Child.

So Christmas should be the time of year our hearts go out to these patient creatures of God.

The Ulster County animal shelter is the refuge set up in Kingston for the protection of badly abused, hurt, sick, as well as the lost and homeless dogs, cats, horses, rabbits and any other creature they find needing help.

Only last month a desperate little dog was discovered crawling away from a burning dump where it had been thrown and left to die.

Another dog was rescued from a lake with its legs tied together with card, saved by the merciful diligence of one of the Ulster County S.P.C.A. workers.

On All Hallows' Eve a beautiful shepherd dog was found wrapped in an old lace curtain shot to death, with a note pinned on him "We were here."

A cat with five kittens was found in a box in the woods starving in the cold.

It is cruelty such as these few examples that the Ulster

County S.P.C.A. contends with every day. The annual cost of the shelter, which runs over $23,000, is mainly shouldered by contributions and the hard work of its members.

The City of Kingston gives $3,000, and the Board of Supervisors appropriate $6,000. This leaves about $15,000 a year to be raised by the kind hearts of its members.

Do you think you can help these animals this year by sending a Christmas present to the shelter?

The address is Ulster County Society of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (S.P.C.A.) Brabant Road, Kingston, N. Y. 12401 or Uptown P. O. Box 124, Kingston.

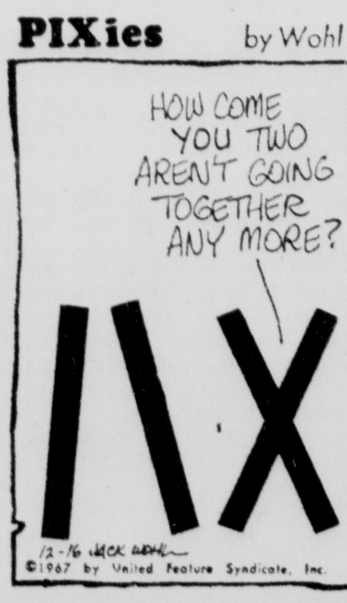

They would be so grateful it would give you a merrier Christmas to know you had helped a defenseless animal.

Sincerely

Poor Rural Americans

Stating that this nation has been largely oblivious to the 14 million impoverished people left behind in rural America, President Johnson named Gov. Edward T. Breathitt of Kentucky in September of 1966 to head a 25-member commission on rural poverty. The commission reported September last, but its report has just been made public without explanation.

It may be that the report's call for a revolutionary plan for guaranteed federal employment and massive birth control was too explosive to release at a time when the Administration was fighting for economy in government spending. Now that it is released, the Cabinet committee on rural poverty says that although not all recommendations are feasible, the general thrust of the recommendations are endorsed.

The recommendations are that poor farm people get the same treatment as poor people in cities; that the Government establish priority legislation and appropriations to see that poor rural people get jobs and manpower policies be overhauled to train poor people for jobs; that the food stamp program be changed to enable poor people to get stamps free to bolster diets; that rural educational services be upgraded, community health centers be established and rural housing program undertaken; that new federal grant program and subsidies for developing rural areas be launched, present programs for the rural poor strengthened and farm program relating to the poor be re-examined.

Contrary to a common misconception, the committee found that whites outnumber non-whites among the rural poor by a wide margin, though a high proportion of Negroes in the rural South and of Indians on the reservations are destitute. Perhaps the most persuasive observation the committee made was that the big city riots last summer had their roots in rural poverty. Those who escaped from the country too often were disillusioned in the cities.

Christmas Tree Safety

The Christmas tree, be it fir, spruce or pine, has been taken from its natural home in the woods, where it was bathed in sunshine and able to absorb nutrients and moisture from the soil. In our home, this annual visitor is expected to withstand heat and extended periods of dryness.

Although the glistening evergreen is not as vulnerable to fire as it used to be when candles were used, it still remains a great hazard. Fortunately, it can be minimized if householders will take sensible precautions.

The location of the tree is important; it should be kept away from areas of heavy traffic in the home and away from radiators. The wiring of the tree lights should be checked with care to forestall short circuits. Decorations that might catch fire easily should be discarded. The tree's stump should be cut diagonally and placed in water. Following these simple rules will help to keep the holiday a happy one.

It is one of life's small, cruel ironies that the Christmas tree, the very symbol of joy in this most joyous season, can also become a focal point of tragedy.

Pedestrian Safety

In the hustle and bustle of Christmas shopping in local stores, pedestrians intent on securing gifts and with arms loaded with packages sometimes forget all about safety precautions in parking areas and when crossing streets.

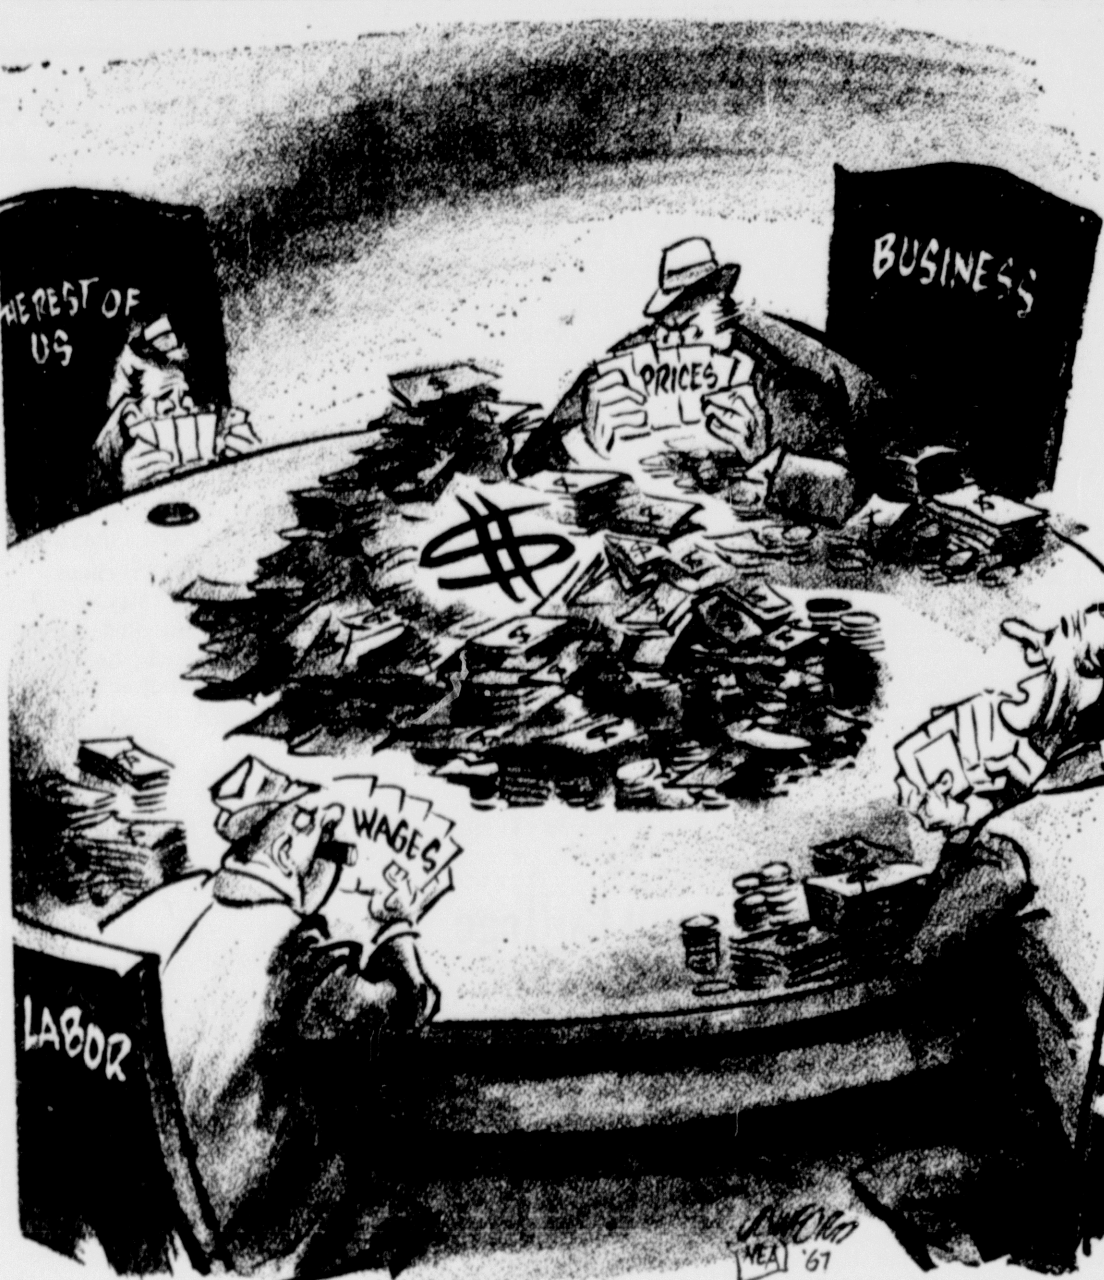

Automobile drivers must keep their cars under control at all times with respect to conditions prevailing, but pedestrians all too often render compliance an impossibility even for the most conscientious motorist.

Pedestrians also must assume responsibility and obey traffic regulations and above all use common sense. The most obvious and direct controllable violations of common sense are jaywalking and ignoring signals. Otherwise, sensible people in their shopping enthusiasm become violators.

It is well for shoppers to remember that when police enforce the local traffic laws they are trying to save the pedestrians from themselves.

Allen Shivers, former Governor of Texas, now president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, puts the blame for inflation squarely on the administration of fellow Texan Lyndon B. Johnson. He said more excessive wage demands and more government spending are the culprits, as few would deny.

With farm surpluses of recent years nearly gone, Senator Mike Monroney, Oklahoma Democrat, wants government financing of producer-owned and controlled emergency reserves of essential foods. They would guard against serious drought, natural disaster or military emergency.

David Lawrence Says LBJ's Partisan Speech At AFL-CIO Meeting

WASHINGTON — President Johnson doesn't often make mistakes in the realm of politics, and if he had the advice of a good "public relations" man, he probably would not have made the kind of partisan speech he delivered at the AFL-CIO convention in Miami this week.

The President had a right to discuss any question he pleased, but he would have been on sound ground if he had avoided political partisanship and confined himself to a commendation of the AFL-CIO for its patriotic resolution of support for the American cause in the Vietnam war.

It was worthwhile, indeed, for the President to call attention to the endorsement of the government's policy in Southeast Asia as proclaimed by the largest labor organization in the world. It means a good deal in other countries where labor plays an important role, too. The fact that the nation's unions are behind the government's course in Vietnam is significant, and Mr. Johnson was wise in stressing it.

The President had every reason to assail critics of the Vietnam war. Because in these passages of his speech he did not single out Democrats or Republicans. But when he coupled this with a political attack on the Republican party on domestic issues, he was weakening his position. He said: "The only time they (the Republicans) really said, 'yes,' an enthusiastic 'yes,' was when they could vote to recommit a good bill — to bury it in a blanket of rhetoric beneath the wave of Republican reaction. But they are not fooling anybody, are they?" "The people know that the old Republican buggy can go only one way and that is backwards, downhill." "The only program that that Grand Old Party offers is the remains of what they backed into and what they have run over on the road, the bits and pieces of what somebody else has built."

Mr. Johnson said that "labor's leadership" had helped make Congress "productive," and he urged that labor work to replace what he called "Republican nay-sayers" with Democrats such as those who "helped write the historic legislative record of the 89th Congress." He declared:

"And we are going to have to work. We are going to have to roll up our sleeves and put our shoulder to the wheel — every man get to work and work through next November."

The president had the benefit of nationwide television audiences when he made his address at Miami. Naturally the Republican leaders in Congress have demanded of the three national networks equal time to answer what they term a "partisan and political speech" to the AFL-CIO convention.

If a Republican president had appeared before the National Association of Manufacturers and sought the campaign help of businessmen as he denounced the Democratic party, this would have been regarded by labor as a blunder deserving impeachment at the polls.

Mr. Johnson's conspicuous alliance with union labor on for developing military forces to meet the anticipated problems of that period.

While drafting the JSOP, the chiefs debate their differences and compromise their views, which are then sent to the secretary of defense.

Then civilian systems analysts prepare "discussion papers" covering such major programs as the size of missile and bomber forces, anti-submarine warfare and the scope of conventional armaments.

The service secretaries and the chiefs then receive a preliminary draft of these papers, reflecting the defense secretary's tentative decisions.

Using computers, the systems analysts digest these comments and lay the differences before the defense secretary and his top deputy. Other views are cranked in from the Pentagon's research chief on such matters as proposed new weapons.

This takes until about August, and for the next two months the defense secretary makes basic decisions on programs looking ahead five years.

On Oct. 1, the armed services and the various defense agencies send in their estimates for the following year's budget to support the strategic objectives plan of the joint chiefs. All during the fall, the defense secretary renders decisions on both the year-ahead budget and the more generalized five-year plan.

It is here that generals and admirals who head the services have an opportunity to express their reservations and arguments directly to the President in the presence of the defense secretary. Such a meeting was held at the White House on Dec. 4.

Details of the budget normally are locked in by Christmas. But some of the most controversial are not resolved until just before the budget is printed on the eve of its early January presentation to Congress.

This is basic strategy projecting five years ahead and forms a planning guide

Drew Pearson Says Percy's $100,000 Expense Dashes White House Hopes

WASHINGTON — You can cross one Republican hopeful for President of the United States off the list—namely eager-beaver young Sen. Chuck Percy of Illinois. The personable and promising young hopeful has cooked his own Presidential goose with his $100,000 so-called "office expense fund."

The issue is extremely important. It highlights the fact that a United States Senator is supposed to serve all the people of his state, not be influenced, indirectly or otherwise, by a few who contribute to his personal expenses.

Explaining his outside fund, Sen. Percy said: "The allowances are simply inadequate. You can't possibly maintain on a Senate allowance an adequate office for a state as large as Illinois."

The interesting fact, however, is that the man whom Percy defeated, ex-Sen. Paul Douglas, did.

Douglas not only operated his office without help from private friends, but he did one of the best jobs of representing the state of Illinois in the last 50 years.

The Washington office allowance for an Illinois Senator is $260,100 a year for hiring stenographers and assistants, which ain't hay; plus another $2,400 for an office in Illinois; plus 300 long-distance phone calls a month; plus $3,000 for stationery; plus various other items such as radio and television tapes at cost.

While Sen. Percy claims this is "simply inadequate," Sen. Douglas not only managed, but to show how he managed he filed a disclosure of his assets and income every year with the Clerk of the Senate.

One Senator Managed His chief outside source of income for 1966 was a modest $28,285.07 for book royalties, magazine articles and lecture fees. In addition he received dividends of $2,067.95; annuities from the University of Chicago of $2,270.28; annuities from teachers insurance—Douglas used to be an economics professor —$793.14; and interest, $61.52. On top of this he had his Senate salary—the same amount as Senator Percy—of $30,000.

Sen. Douglas carefully tabulated his expenses as follows: He spent $864.56 on travel, for which he was reimbursed in 1966; $1,350 for office expenses, for which he was also reimbursed; and in 1966 he had unused stationery allowance of $170.54.

He was not reimbursed, however, for a much larger amount, namely $7,919.69 for additional travel, office expenses in Illinois and the cost of living in the District of Columbia. Meticulously Douglas listed such expenses as subscriptions to six weekly papers in Illinois and ten downstate daily newspapers that, together with telephones, telegrams, golden and silver wedding anniversary presents, birthday presents, made a total of $1,172 in 1966.

In addition, he spent $1,505 in contributions to political organizations and political candidates. He said this was necessary almost every year.

Douglas also spent $3,413.31 on radio and television programs which he said were necessary in order to keep in touch with people of the state. He paid for these himself, though he got them at cost from the Capitol Hill TV and radio stations.

Senators Pay Taxes Too Out of Douglas's $30,000 Senate salary he had to pay an income tax of $5,442, plus $1,000 local property tax, plus a $2,000 contribution to his retirement fund.

Douglas found that letters from his constituents averaged about a thousand a day, and employed "3½ people" in his Chicago office to take care of his mail, in addition to his staff in Washington.

When all these expenses were added together and deducted from his Senate income, both salary and expenses, Douglas had as take-home pay in 1966 approximately $8,896.42.

Douglas filed his financial statement with the Clerk of the Senate every year, but his last statement to the people of Illinois, December 28, 1966, is especially interesting. It began: "This is the last report I will make to the citizens of Illinois since, as you know, I was defeated for reelection on November 8 by a very decisive margin."

This is a long way from the $100,000 privately-raised fund which Sen. Percy claims is completely ethical and absolutely necessary to run his office.

GREATEST GIFT — Urging county residents to use Christmas Seals in that it may be the greatest gift of all... life... Seal campaign officials discuss purpose and program. (L) are John M. Robbins, TB and Health Association president; Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb Sr., 1967 honorary chairman of Seals drive; Mrs. Ross K. Osterhout, board member and Seal township chairman for Marlborough and Percy W. Gazley, Rochester Christmas Seal township chairman. (Photo Workshop photo).

Purpose of Christmas Seal: To Fight Respiratory Disease

"Most people associate Christmas Seals, which come along with the Christmas season, with the fight against Tuberculosis. This is not incorrect, and in fact, is a most important fact, but it is far from the whole story. Today's Christmas Seals purpose and program goes much farther."

"Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb Sr., in reporting as the 1967 Honorary Chairman of the Ulster County Christmas Seal Campaign, made it clear that a major aspect of Christmas Seal work is often misunderstood. 'Many are unaware of the Christmas Seal role in fighting the other respiratory diseases such as emphysema, chronic bronchitis, asthma and the allergies.'"

Serious Concern

"Emphysema, in particular, is becoming a very serious problem," Dr. Holcomb stated. "In the last decade, the incidence of new cases of emphysema has increased by over 600 per cent. It is most common among heavy smokers, which indicates why our TB-RD Association includes education concerning the effects of cigarette smoking in its programming. Emphysema also is common with people who live or work in areas having a high level of air pollution which emphasizes our air pollution concern, which now further is reflected in the association's developing program emphasis in cleaner air programming and action-for-clean air committee project."

In outlining the alarming emphysema trend, Dr. Holcomb pointed to the staggering emphysema increases; 151,000 just diagnosed emphysema cases in 1962 driving upward to 414,000 cases in 1966 a 174.2 per cent increase. As a disabler alone, emphysema is a serious statistic and fact," Dr. Holcomb continued. "Emphysema ranked as the second leading cause of disability on social security rolls and at a disability benefit cost established at $90 million. As a killer, emphysema specifically was the cause of 10,269 deaths in 1961. By 1965, emphysema deaths had spiraled up to 18,664, an increase of 81.8 per cent on emphysema deaths in 4 years."

Other Diseases

In continuing his comments, Dr. Holcomb noted: "Yet this also is not our TB-RD Association's only other Christmas Seal concern; the whole range of respiratory disorders have our commitment." He noted that chronic sinusitis accounted for 16,102,000 sufferers in 1965-1966; asthma and hay fever another 15,448,000; chronic bronchitis another 3,991,000. The increase in chronic bronchitis by patient diagnosis up-trended from 182,000 in 1962 to 399,000 in 1966, a 119.2 per cent increase. "These are facts that dramatically demonstrate the epidemic-like character of respiratory disease trends in these past few years. Army Chief Blamed

Algerian Loyalists Crush Coup Try

ALGIERS (AP) — Algeria's socialist government claimed full control of the country today after announcing that loyal troops, in fierce fighting, crushed a coup attempt by rebels to the left of the regime.

The rebels had accused the regime of President Houari Boumedienne of "betrayal of the socialist revolution."

Observers said the defeat of the dissidents meant a step toward political stability for the potentially rich North African Arab nation and the chance it might take a more moderate stance in its relations with the West.

Bitter Fighting

The government announced Friday night that rebel elements led by ousted army chief of staff, Col. Tahar Zbiri, "were blocked, surrounded and eliminated" near the towns of Blida and El Affroun, both within 35 miles of Algiers.

Fighting was described as bitter with the loyalist air force striking at rebel tank units. The dissident's attack, the government said, was "an inhumane operation which caused numerous casualties among the civilian population of the region."

The rebellion capped weeks in which Boumedienne's regime who directed Algeria's seven-year guerrilla war leading to violent confrontation with a dependence from France in the hard-line revolutionaries. With the backing of at least

Earlier Case in Dutchess

Child 'Shot' Conviction

BATH, N.Y. (AP) — A chiropractor and his wife who refused to allow their two young children to submit to antipolio immunization were convicted today of parental neglect.

The verdict against Dr. Joseph Marko and his wife, of Corning, was announced by Judge Alton J. Wightman of Steuben County Court. He also upheld the constitutionality of the state law requiring school children to be immunized against polio.

Another judge, Raymond E. Aldrich Jr. of Dutchess County Family Court, decided Dec. 1 that the law was constitutional.

Under the law, school children must have had polio inoculations except in cases where parents are "bonafide members of a recognized religious organization whose teachings are contrary to the practice" of immunization.

Marko said he refused to allow his daughter, Karen, 7, and son, Paul, 5, to have antipolio shots because of his Greek Catholic belief in freedom of choice. He claimed that such shots might have adverse side effects. The children were enrolled in the Corning Painted Post School, which barred them from classes for a few days in September. Later, they were reinstated.

Wightman did not set a date for sentencing of the Markos. He could order the children taken from them and be placed in a foster home, or allow the children to live with their parents but be supervised by the county welfare department.

If the latter were ordered, court sources said, the parents might be directed to have the children immunized. They said failure to comply could result in six-month jail sentences.

Earlier this month, Aldrich ruled on the law's constitutionality in a case of Robert Elwell, a Poughkeepsie chiropractor, who had refused to have his five children immunized on the ground it would violate his religious beliefs.

Several other chiropractors in the state had challenged the law.

News of the coup attempt was preceded Friday by an announcement by Boumedienne that he had ousted Zbiri. The president said, "Irresponsible elements have committed a clear act of disobedience. In consequence I have decided to directly assume command of the national popular army."

The 40-year-old chief of state called on soldiers and veterans for support and received immediate backing from the commanders of Oran and Constantine, the extreme eastern and western sectors in the country's five-region military set-up.

Algiers, the modern, French-built capital on the Mediterranean, remained calm but military patrols blocked the road to Blida and all train traffic was halted.

Boumedienne accused the plotters of being confused men "thirsty for blood and adventure." He vowed punishment that "would be made to fit the size of the crime they tried to commit."

'Chain-Reaction' Crash Kills Man

WARSAW, N.Y. (AP) — The chain-reaction collision of five automobiles Friday along an icy section of Route 20-A claimed the life of an elderly man and injured his wife.

Wyoming County sheriff's deputies said Roy E. Austin, 77, of Leicester, was thrown from his car in the accident, which occurred about two miles east of this village.

Austin was taken to Wyoming County Community Hospital here, then taken to Millard Fillmore Hospital, Buffalo, where he was dead on arrival. His wife, Ivy, suffered head cuts.

GREATEST GIFT — Urging county residents to use Christmas Seals in that it may be the greatest gift of all... life... Seal campaign officials discuss purpose and program. (L) are John M. Robbins, TB and Health Association president; Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb Sr., 1967 honorary chairman of the Christmas Seals drive; Mrs. Ross K. Osterhout, board member and Seal township chairman for Marlborough and Percy W. Gazley, Rochester Christmas Seal township chairman. (Photo Workshop photo).

Purpose of Christmas Seal: To Fight Respiratory Disease

"Most people associate Christmas Seals, which come along with the Christmas season, with the fight against Tuberculosis. This is not incorrect, and in fact, is a most important fact, but it is far from the whole story. Today's Christmas Seals purpose and program goes much farther."

"Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb Sr., in reporting as the 1967 Honorary Chairman of the Ulster County Christmas Seal Campaign, made it clear that a major aspect of Christmas Seal work is often misunderstood. 'Many are unaware of the Christmas Seal role in fighting the other respiratory diseases such as emphysema, chronic bronchitis, asthma and the allergies.'"

Serious Concern
"Emphysema, in particular, is becoming a very serious problem," Dr. Holcomb stated. "In the last decade, the incidence of new cases of emphysema has increased by over 600 per cent. It is most common among heavy smokers, which indicates why our TB-RD Association includes education concerning the effects of cigarette smoking in its programming. Emphysema also is common with people who live or work in areas having a high level of air pollution which emphasizes our air pollution concern, which now further is reflected in the association's developing program emphasis in cleaner air programming and action-for-clean air committee project."

In outlining the alarming emphysema trend Dr. Holcomb pointed to the staggering emphysema increases; 151,000 just diagnosed emphysema cases in 1962 driving upward to 414,000 cases in 1966 a 174.2 per cent increase. As a disabler alone, emphysema is a serious statistic and fact," Dr. Holcomb continued. "Emphysema ranked as the second leading cause of disability on social security rolls and at a disability benefit cost established at $90 million. As a killer, emphysema specifically was the cause of 10,269 deaths in 1961. By 1965, emphysema deaths had spiraled up to 18,664, an increase of 81.8 per cent on emphysema deaths in 4 years."

Other Diseases
In continuing his comments, Dr. Holcomb noted: "Yet this also is not our TB-RD Association's only other Christmas Seal concern; the whole range of respiratory disorders have our commitment." He noted that chronic sinusitis accounted for 16,102,000 sufferers in 1965-1966; asthma and hay fever another 15,448,000; chronic bronchitis another 3,991,000. The increase in chronic bronchitis by patient diagnosis up-trended from 182,000 in 1962 to 399,000 in 1966, a 119.2 per cent increase. "These are facts that dramatically demonstrate the epidemic-like character of respiratory disease trends in these past few years. Even records of short-term hospital stays are revealing; they indicate that twelve out of every 100 people in hospitals for short illnesses are there because of respiratory disease."

The clean air and cigarette smoking program already mentioned, Dr. Holcomb's report moved on. The TB-RD Association tion's Christmas Seal total program in respiratory disease education is a major project which reached this past year into our county elementary and high schools, and nursing schools and directly reaching educators, students, organizations, agencies and public. The further increased X-ray program in 1967 in all our county schools, industry, in two community projects and at the health fair in Kingston provided over 2,000 X-rays. TB and respiratory disease problems and all abnormalities were recorded and reported to the Ulster County Department of Health and Ulster County Chest Clinic for official study and follow-up.

In conclusion, Dr. Holcomb stated: "The long tradition of Christmas Seals is our best defense against TB and the alarmingly increased respiratory diseases, and our Ulster County Christmas Seal appeal is one of the most deserving of those in all our county schools, industry, in two community projects and at the health fair in Kingston provided over 2,000 X-rays. Child 'Shot' Conviction

BATH, N.Y. (AP) — A chiropractor and his wife who refused to allow their two young children to submit to antipolio immunization were convicted today of parental neglect.

The verdict against Dr. Joseph Marko and his wife, of Corning, was announced by Judge Alton J. Wightman of Steuben County Court. He also upheld the constitutionality of the state law requiring school children to be immunized against polio.

Another judge, Raymond E. Aldrich Jr. of Dutchess County Family Court, decided Dec. 1 that the law was constitutional.

Under the law, school children must have had polio inoculations except in cases where parents are "bonafide members of a recognized religious organization whose teachings are contrary to the practice" of immunization.

Marko said he refused to allow his daughter, Karen, 7, and son, Paul, 5, to have antipolio shots because of his Greek Catholic belief in freedom of choice. He claimed that such shots might have adverse side effects.

The children were enrolled in the Corning Painted Post School, which barred them from classes for a few days in September. Later, they were reinstated.

Wightman did not set a date for sentencing of the Markos.

He could order the children taken from them and be placed in a foster home, or allow the children to live with their parents but be supervised by the county welfare department.

If the latter were ordered, court sources said, the parents might be directed to have the children immunized. They said failure to comply could result in six-month jail sentences.

Earlier this month, Aldrich ruled on the law's constitutionality in a case of Robert Elwell, a Poughkeepsie chiropractor, who had refused to have his five children immunized on the ground it would violate his religious beliefs.

Several other chiropractors in the state had challenged the law.

News of the coup attempt was preceded Friday by an announcement by Boumedienne that he had ousted Zbiri. The president said, "Irresponsible elements have committed a clear act of disobedience. In consequence I have decided to directly assume command of the national popular army."

Terror In the Oil Field

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — A hidden enemy is carrying on a strange guerrilla warfare against the $1-billion oil industry of southwest Louisiana, dynamiting pipelines, oil wells, service stations and communication lines.

Twenty-two times in the last two years dynamite bombs have exploded in the secrecy of night, causing damage roughly estimated at $1 million.

Cost Two Lives

Resulting tensions have cost two lives.

One of the most recent blasts, a bombing of a 22-inch gas pipeline near Gueydan, La., on Oct. 5, prompted the Texaco Oil Co. to post a $50,000 reward. No one has offered information to claim it.

The foe is unnamed, his motives unclear. Only meager clues have been found at bombed sites. And countermeasures taken by state police and the sheriffs of 10 parishes have not achieved a single arrest.

Disturbed citizens have insisted the governor take action. They have formed committees, pooled their money and hired private detectives.

One drilling contractor has armed his 22 employees with shotguns, vowing the bombers "are not going to run these men off."

The big oil and gas corporations have tightened security and joined civic leaders in offering rewards totaling $80,000. But they admit, privately, they are virtually defenseless.

"There must be 3,000 wells in southwest Louisiana," notes one industry spokesman. "We can't have a man at each well 24 hours a day."

Ample Time to Flee

State and local investigators point out that because dynamite can be planted hours before it is detonated, a bomber has ample time to escape. And the only clues discovered so far have been a pocket knife, a piece of clothing, packing from fuses and items similarly difficult to trace.

Privately officials of oil and gas companies theorize labor is trying to organize the largely nonunion producing companies — firms involved in exploring and drilling for gas and oil — and is harassing the big refining and distributing corporations which continue to use the small, local contractors.

Labor leaders deny the charges vehemently.

The shock waves of blasts and deaths can be felt by the owner of a small business as well as executives of big gas companies.

"Investors are afraid to come into the area," says Wilfred Beigneud, head of the Association of Industrial Improvement and president of the Lafayette Chamber of Commerce.

"I would say the economy of the area is already damaged, in what degree is hard to say."

The mineral-rich area, heavily dependent on the oil and gas industry, is the land of the Cajun — a hot and swampy flatland inhabited by people who speak a French patois as readily as English. It stretches through the parishes (counties) of Acadia, Calcasieu, Cameron, Iberia, Jefferson Davis, Lafayette, St. Landry, St. Martin, St. Mary and Vermilion.

Sawkill Yule Party Sunday

The annual Christmas Party for the children of the Sawkill community will be held this year at the Town Hall, Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m.

Santa Claus will be on hand with gifts and goodies for all children up to 9 years of age. The Ladies Auxiliary of the Sawkill Fire Company is once again sponsoring the party for the community children, and are being assisted by the Sawkill Fire Company.

Everyone may attend the festivities.

Milk Prices

Dairy farmers in the New York-New Jersey milkshed will receive a uniform farm price of $5.53 per hundredweight (46.5 quarts) for November milk deliveries to pool handlers, A. J. Pollard, market administrator announced today. The October price was $5.64; $5.39 was paid in November, 1966.

The producer butterfat differential will be computed at 5.8 cents for each tenth of a pound of fat above or below the 3.5 per cent standard.

Dr. Pollard reported that receipts from producers were 62,109,768 pounds, or 7.6 per cent, under November, 1966, and that sales of fluid milk (Class I) dropped 8,717,704 pounds, or 1.9 per cent. A total of 753,174,205 pounds was pooled, of which 444,177,493 pounds were sold as fluid.

Adult Education

A course in Child Development will be offered for parents at the Red Hook Central School starting Monday, Jan. 15. Harry Kane, director of continuing education for adults, may be contacted at the school for further information concerning fees, curriculum and instructors.

Terror In the Oil Field

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — A hidden enemy is carrying on a strange guerrilla warfare against the $1-billion oil industry of southwest Louisiana, dynamiting pipelines, oil wells, service stations and communication lines.

Twenty-two times in the last two years dynamite bombs have exploded in the secrecy of night, causing damage roughly estimated at $1 million.

Cost Two Lives

Resulting tensions have cost two lives.

One of the most recent blasts, a bombing of a 22-inch gas pipeline near Cuyedon, La., on Oct. 5, prompted the Texaco Oil Co. to post a $50,000 reward. No one has offered information to claim it.

The foe is unnamed, his motives unclear. Only meager clues have been found at bombed sites. And countermeasures taken by state police and the sheriffs of 10 parishes have not achieved a single arrest.

Disturbed citizens have insisted the governor take action. They have formed committees, pooled their money and hired private detectives.

One drilling contractor has armed his 22 employees with shotguns, vowing the bombers "are not going to run these men off."

The big oil and gas corporations have tightened security and joined civic leaders in offering rewards totaling $80,000. But they admit, privately, they are virtually defenseless.

"There must be 3,000 wells in southwest Louisiana," notes one industry spokesman. "We can't have a man at each well 24 hours a day."

Ample Time to Flee

State and local investigators point out that because dynamite can be planted hours before it is detonated, a bomber has ample time to escape. And the only clues discovered so far have been a pocket knife, a piece of clothing, packing from fuses and items similarly difficult to trace.

Privately officials of oil and gas companies theorize labor is trying to organize the largely nonunion producing companies — firms involved in exploring and drilling for gas and oil — and is harassing the big refining and distributing corporations which continue to use the small, local contractors.

Labor leaders deny the charges vehemently.

The shock waves of blasts and deaths can be felt by the owner of a small business as well as executives of big gas companies.

"Investors are afraid to come into the area," says Wilfred Beigneau, head of the Association of Industrial Improvement and president of the Lafayette Chamber of Commerce.

"I would say the economy of the area is already damaged, in what degree is hard to say."

The mineral-rich area, heavily dependent on the oil and gas industry, is the land of the Cajun — a hot and swampy flatland inhabited by people who speak a French patois as readily as English. It stretches through the parishes (counties) of Acadia, Calcasieu, Cameron, Iberia, Jefferson Davis, Lafayette, St. Landre, St. Martin, St. Mary and Vermilion.

Sawkill Yule Party Sunday

The annual Christmas Party for the children of the Sawkill community will be held this year at the Town Hall, Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m.

Santa Claus will be on hand with gifts and goodies for all children up to 9 years of age.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Sawkill Fire Company is once again sponsoring the party for the community children, and are being assisted by the Sawkill Fire Company.

Everyone may attend the festivities.

Zeilman-LeMoult Nuptials Told

Miss Helen Jeanette Zeilman, 501 West 113th Street, New York, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Zeilman, 23 Spaulding Lane, Saugerties, became the bride of Everett Joseph LeMoult Jr., son of Mr. Mr. and Mrs. Everett J. LeMoult, 621 North Palmway, Lake Worth, Fla., on Saturday, Nov. 18, in Trinity Episcopal Church, Saugerties.

The Rev. Richard Shepherd celebrated the nuptial Mass and officiated at the double ring ceremony. Robert Moore provided traditional wedding selections. The altar was decorated with gladioli, pompons and two beauty baskets of white chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length white Alencon lace over ivory cage dress fashioned with short sleeves and scalloped neckline. Her short veil was fashioned to a matching lace headpiece. She carried a cascade bouquet of white pompons.

After the wedding a reception for 60 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents. For her wedding trip to British Virgin Islands and Jamaica, the bride selected a tan suit with fur trim and dark brown accessories.

The bride, a graduate of Saugerties High School and St. Luke's School of Nursing, New York, is employed as head nurse in pediatrics in St. Luke's Hospital.

Her husband, an alumnus of Lake Worth High School, Florida, and New York State Marquette College, is now employed by American Export Isbrandtsen Lines Inc. as U. S. chief officer. Mr. and Mrs. LeMoult will reside in New York.

Zeilman-LeMoult Nuptials Told

Miss Helen Jeanette Zeilman, 501 West 113th Street, New York, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Zeilman, 23 Spaulding Lane, Saugerties, became the bride of Everett Joseph LeMoult Jr., son of Mr. Mr. and Mrs. Everett J. LeMoult, 621 North Palmway, Lake Worth, Fla., on Saturday, Nov. 18, in Trinity Episcopal Church, Saugerties.

The Rev. Richard Shepherd celebrated the nuptial Mass and officiated at the double ring ceremony. Robert Moore provided traditional wedding selections. The altar was decorated with gladioli, pompons and two beauty baskets of white chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length white Alencon lace over ivory cage dress fashioned with short sleeves and scalloped neckline. Her short veil was fashioned to a matching lace headpiece. She carried a cascade bouquet of white pompons.

William Zeilman, brother of the bride, Bloomfield, Conn., was best man. David Smith, Scituate, Mass., served as usher.

After the wedding a reception for 60 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents. For her wedding trip to British Virgin Islands and Jamaica, the bride selected a tan suit with fur trim and dark brown accessories.

The bride, a graduate of Saugerties High School and St. Luke's School of Nursing, New York, is employed as head nurse in pediatrics in St. Luke's Hospital.

Her husband, an alumnus of Lake Worth High School, Florida, and New York State Maritime College, is now employed by American Export Isbrandtsen Lines Inc. as U. S. chief officer. Mr. and Mrs. LeMoult will reside in New York.

Marlboro Takes UCAL Lead; Rondout Upsets New Paltz

Top Bush By 48 to 42

By CHRIS GEHMAN
Sports Staff

Marlboro Central Dukes whipped Pine Bush, 48-42 last night to extend its winning streak to three straight and take over the UCAL basketball lead with a 3-0 record.

Tight defense characterized the game which saw the teams tied 15 all at the quarter and 27-27 at halftime.

Marlboro took a slim four point lead in the third period, 34-30, on a free throw by Roy McAtee, a bucket by Arnold Hosglander and two shots by Mike Pagano. Brent Youngblood chalked up a free throw and Jeff Sudol rimmed one from outside for Pine Bush's three points in the quarter.

Dukes changed from man to man defense to zone in the last period of the game.

In the last six seconds of the game, with the Dukes leading by three, 45-42, Danny Marticello snatched the ball away from a Pine Bushman, McAtee put in a foul shot and Danny Marsh iced the game with a lay up to bring the final score to 48-42.

Tom Saxton and Rafael DeJesus, who was missing from the line up in the Bushmen's last game against Rondout, sank 10 apiece for the Pine Bush squad. Roy McAtee had 12 for the victors.

In Jayvee action, Pine Bush won 42-32, Rich Alexander of Pine Bush was high scorer with 11 points.

Celtes, 76ers

Are Hanging on

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Celtics and Philadelphia 76ers are again enmeshed in their perennial battle for supremacy in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association and Friday night they gave differing—thought equally successful—demonstrations of how to win.

The Celtics, in the opening game of a doubleheader at Philadelphia, were breezing along with a 22-point lead over San Diego, but had to hold off a fast Rocket finish to win 114-101.

The 76ers, on the other hand, trailed St. Louis by a big margin before some timely shooting by Lucious Jackson propelled them to a 107-98 victory.

In other NBA games Friday night, San Francisco beat Baltimore 110-97, Cincinnati topped Detroit 147-130 and Seattle took Chicago 122-115.

NEW YORK METS traded outfielder Tommy Davis (L) and pitcher Jack Fisher (2nd L) to Chicago White Sox for centerfielder Tommie Agee (2nd R) and infielder Al Booker.

Mets Make the Radical Move

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Mets have made their most radical move while seeking to erase their image as a serio-comic baseball team by sacrificing Tommy Davis, their best hitter, in a six-player trade with the Chicago White Sox.

Center fielder Tommie Agee and infielder Al Weis, both exceptionally fine fielders, were obtained from the White Sox for Davis, veteran starting pitcher Terry Bauer was the lone scorer for Lourdes in the period, on a free throw with 20 seconds remaining.

Indians Take Second Place

Onteora Central squeaked by Highland, 60-59, to move into second place in the standings in a thrilling UCAL contest last night at Highland.

The teams were tied at the half, 32-32, and again 49-49 at three quarters but a lot of things happened in between.

Coach Wes Kissel's Boiceville Indians opened up a 5-point lead early in the third quarter but Coach Dick Becker's Highlanders roared back with 11 straight points to go ahead by six. The Indians rallied their forces and managed to effect a 49-49 tie at the end of the third quarter.

Roosevelt Topples Saugerties, 72-49

Greg Kohls rimmed 37 points to pace Roosevelt High to a 72-49 DCSL victory over Saugerties High last night at the Sawyer gym. The Roosevelt ace scored 30 in the first half.

With Saugerties trailing, 41-29, at the beginning of the third period, Coach Bud Smith decided to put the lid on and switched to a box-one defense with a man on Kohls. The strategy held Kohls to seven foul shots in the second half but Charlie Coston kept the heat on with 12 points for the visitors.

and catcher Dick "Buddy" Booker.

The transaction was one of two completed Friday only a few hours before the midnight deadline for inter-league trading. In the other one, the Philadelphia Phillies sent pitcher Dick Ellsworth and catcher Gene Oliver to the Boston Red Sox for catcher Mike Ryan plus an undisclosed amount of cash.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, disappointed over their sixth-place finish last season, were scheduled to announce a major trade this afternoon. There were hints the deal would be with another National League team—perhaps Philadelphia.

"As long as an inter-league deal is completed before the midnight deadline and we are told about it, the trade can be announced at any time," explained a spokesman for Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert.

Third baseman Maury Wills and first baseman Donn Clendenon have been the Pirates' most often mentioned in trade speculation.

The deal involving the light-hitting White Sox and the poor-fielding Mets had been rumored for a number of weeks.

The Mets think they made no mistake.

Agee is a young player who has an outstanding glove and range, exceptional speed and good power," said Gil Hodges, the Mets' new manager, who piloted Washington of the AL the past five years.

"We have been searching to fill the key position of center field ever since the Mets were organized," explained Johnny Murphy, New York's vice-president and acting general manager. "When Hodges was signed as manager of our team he designated Agee as the American League's center fielder most worth shooting for in a deal."

Coleman Cagers Blast Wallkill

John A. Coleman School cagers turned in their best performance of the season, routing Wallkill, 105-49, in a home game Friday night.

Coleman raced to a 54-39 lead in the first half, then broke the game wide open with a 24-2 bulge in the third period.

Hank Harder led with 20 points and had 14 rebounds. John Fitzgerald meshed 20 points to go with five assists and 13 rebounds. Don Hastings moved up to the Jayvee squad after averaging 18 points for the freshman, contributed 19 points and seven rebounds. Bob Bouchard was outstanding on defense with six assists and several steals.

The Coleman reserves played the last quarter and half of the third without any diminution in the scoring pace. Coleman's next game is scheduled Dec. 29 at New Rochelle against Blessed Sacrament.

Quarter Horse Meeting Here

New York State Quarter Horse Association holds its annual election meeting Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Gov. Clinton hotel. Officers and directors for the 1968 season will be elected at this meeting.

Association President Frank Van Valkenburg of Albany has invited all area horse enthusiasts to the meeting.

The New York State group is the original quarter horse association in the eastern United States. Originally, the association covered all of New England, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York. In recent years, interest in quarter horse breeding has increased so much that each state now has its own association, patterned after New York State.

Arlington Is On Top In DCSL

Unbeaten Arlington handed Beacon high, perennial UCAL champions, their second straight defeat with a decisive 77-68 setback last night in the Bulldogs' home lair. The win put Arlington top of the DCSL heap with a 3-0 record.

Led by Scott McCandlish and Ken Sawyer, Arlington rolled to a 20-8 quarter lead but the Bulldogs bounced back with a 31-point second period to trail 39-40 at the half.

Beacon led briefly in the third period, 52-51, on a tapin by Nate Milligan but the Admirals regained control to pull away 59-55 at the three quarter mark. They outthrust the Bulldogs, 18-13, in the fourth period to nail down the important victory.

Nate Milligan of Beacon took scoring honors with 30 points. McCandlish finished with 26 and Sawyer had 13. Beacon won the Jayvee contest, 71-68.

Arlington hosts Kingston High on Dec. 21, while Beacon is at the Kate Walton field house Tuesday.

Fran Tarkenton Says: "1967 My Best in Pro Ball"

This will be the last of the columns by Fran Tarkenton for the regular season. The sparkling New York Giant will contribute one more column in early January prior to the Super Bowl, analyzing the participating teams.

When I came to the New York Giants last summer, in their training camp at Fairfield, Conn., two facts were self-evident. One, they were not any match physically for the team I'd come from. I don't think anybody I argue that one.

Two, I missed my old teammates acutely at the beginning. I didn't know what to expect.

On Comeback Trail

VAL D'ISERE, France (AP) — American skiing star Billy Kidd's comeback seems to be just about complete. Competing in his first big meet since breaking his leg 18 months ago, Kidd followed up a fine performance Thursday with an even better one Friday, taking third in a special slalom event at the Critterium of the First Snow ski meet.

Added to the fifth he took in the giant slalom Thursday, Kidd was tied for second place in the combined point standings with Jean-Paul Augert of France.

Ahead of them was Austria's Karl Schranz, who won the special slalom, with a total time of 74.55 for the two legs of the 3,200-meter course.

Set Investigation

On $200,000 Fire

BOSTON, N.Y. (AP) — Investigators sought the cause today of a fire that left damage estimated at more than $200,000 to a 34-unit apartment building under construction near this community 20 miles south of Buffalo.

About 100 volunteer firemen from four communities brought the flames under control several hours after the fire erupted Friday night. Two firemen suffered minor injuries and were treated by a private physician. Erie County sheriff's deputies placed the loss to the half-completed building at $100,000, but State Police quoted the owner, Harold May, as saying the damage would exceed $200,000. The structure is on Route 219.

Man Stabbed Following Game

A 36-year-old Kingston man was stabbed in the face last night following a poker game on East Pierpont Street, police said.

The victim, Joseph Bowman of 39 Chambers Street, was treated at Benedictine Hospital for lacerations of the face. He told police the incident resulted after he had won some money from his alleged attacker.

Charged with second degree assault is Lester Collins, 21 Pierpont Street. He pleaded innocent this morning in city court and had his case adjourned until Tuesday.

According to the court information, Bowman, Collins and two other persons, were playing cards when an argument started. Bowman said that Collins invited him outside "to settle this thing." Bowman then said that Collins stabbed him in the face as soon as they left the house. The incident took place at Collins' residence.

Ballet Scores

A triumphant Mid-Hudson Regional Ballet Company was greeted last Sunday by the largest audience ever to turn out for an event of this type in the Saugerties High School auditorium. No one had to be turned away, but many stood throughout the performance or made use of quickly recruited folding chairs.

Reason for the SRO crowd was the excellently choreographed "Little Match Girl," a delightful, attention holder of graceful dancing, superb costuming and colorful scenery. Mid-Hudson's artistic directors, Estelle and Alfonso, summoned up a wealth of detailed showmanship in the holiday mixture of ballet, modern jazz, and lively tap to keep the audience constantly entertained.

Extra added attraction on the program was Miss Karen Eckerlein at the keyboard of the high school organ with capable renditions and pleasing variations of Christmas carols. Among the more delightful aspects of the Christmas Ballet, the "Spectrum" number with its constantly changing colors and the lively tap productions, "Sleigh Ride" and "Nuttie Jingle Bells."

Master of ceremonies Walter Biscardi introduced the 10 selections on the program, climaxed by "Adeste Fideles," and Saugerties Jaycee president Lawrence Sasser welcomed the audience. Needless to say, the sponsoring Jaycees felt the large turnout was a vote of confidence for their efforts in bringing cultural enrichment to Saugerties, and extended thanks to all who attended and helped make their Christmas Ballet a resounding success.

Billy Kidd On Comeback Trail

VAL D'ISERE, France (AP) — American skiing star Billy Kidd's comeback seems to be just about complete. Competing in his first big meet since breaking his leg 18 months ago, Kidd followed up a fine performance Thursday with an even better one Friday, taking third in a special slalom event at the Critterium of the First Snow ski meet.

Added to the fifth he took in the giant slalom Thursday, Kidd was tied for second place in the combined point standings with Jean-Paul Augert of France. Ahead of them was Austria's Karl Schranz, who won the special slalom, with a total time of 74.53 for the two legs of the 3,200-meter course.

Set Investigation On $200,000 Fire

BOSTON, N.Y. (AP) — Investigators sought the cause today of a fire that left damage estimated at more than $200,000 to a 34-unit apartment building under construction near this community 20 miles south of Buffalo. About 100 volunteer firemen from four communities brought the flames under control several hours after the fire erupted Friday night. Two firemen suffered minor injuries and were treated by a private physician. Erie County sheriff's deputies placed the loss to the half-completed building at $100,000, but State Police quoted the owner, Harold May, as saying the damage would exceed $200,000. The structure is on Route 219.

Man Stabbed Following Game

A 36-year old Kingston man was stabbed in the face last night following a poker game on East Pierpont Street, police said.

Th victim, Joseph Bowman of 39 Chambers Street, was treated at Benedictine Hospital for lacerations of the face. He told police the incident resulted after he had won some money from his alleged attacker.

Charged with second degree assault is Lester Collins, 21 Pierpont Street. He pleaded innocent this morning in city court and had his case adjourned until Tuesday.

According to the court information, Bowman, Collins and two other persons, were playing cards when an argument started. Bowman said that Collins invited him outside "to settle this thing." Bowman then said that Collins stabbed him in the face as soon as they left the house. The incident took place at Collins' residence.

Ballet Scores

A triumphant Mid-Hudson Regional Ballet Company was greeted last Sunday by the largest audience ever to turn out for an event of this type in the Saugerties High School auditorium. No one had to be turned away, but many stood throughout the performance or made use of quickly recruited folding chairs.

Reason for the SRO crowd was the excellently choreographed "Little Match Girl," a delightful, attention holder of graceful dancing, superb costumes and colorful scenery. Mid-Hudson's artistic directors, Estelle and Alfonso, summoned up a wealth of detailed showmanship in the holiday mixture of ballet, modern jazz, and lively tap to keep the audience constantly entertained.

Extra added attraction on the program was Miss Karen Eckerlein at the keyboard of the high school organ with capable renditions and pleasing variations of Christmas carols.

Among the more delightful aspects of the Christmas Ballet: the "Spectrum" number with its constantly changing colors and the lively tap productions, "Sleigh Ride" and "Nuttie Jingle Bells."

Master of ceremonies Walter Biscardi introduced the 10 selections on the program, climaxed by "Adeste Fidelis," and Saugerties Jaycee president Lawrence Sasser welcomed the audience. Needless to say, the sponsoring Jaycees felt the large turnout was a vote of confidence for their efforts in bringing cultural enrichment to Saugerties, and extended thanks to all who attended and helped make their Christmas Ballet a resounding success.

Two Kingston men were arrested Friday by State Police, BCI Investigators Richard Ryan and Robert Greaves and County Investigator Harold T. Bowers on charges of possessing gambling records. Trooper E. A. Zeboris said the men were booked as Anthony J. Albany, 40, of 36 Lipton Street, and Guernio Ruzzo, 68, of 670 Broadway. Both men were arrested before Ulster Town Justice Arthur A. An American Dies in Viet EDITOR'S NOTE: AP photographer Horst Faas, wounded in action Dec. 6, is recovering in a military hospital. In the following story he tells of life and death there.

BY HORST FAAS
— The television news comes on at 7:30 p. m. with a blast of martial music. The television set overlooks 14 beds in this post-operative ward at the U.S. Army's 24th Evacuation Hospital.

It does not overlook the 10 beds of the "shrouds, the ghosts that call me at night," as one male nurse describes them. These are the most serious cases.

They lie in their beds, some with crushed faces and bodies. They are swathed in heavy, bloody bandages. Tubes dangle from Plasma bottles. Some are uncovered to the waist. They curl pale from exhaustion. There is heavy breathing. Sometimes there are moans of pain. When the moans increase, a nurse steps quietly to the bed.

In the second bed on the left side of this section there is a strapping big man, a sergeant. He is going to die in 20 minutes. He is so tall that his feet hang over the frame of his bed. He is crew cut and heavily suntanned. He wears a mustache.

The sergeant arrived in the ward on a stretcher three days ago. He mumbled incoherently. Sometimes he screamed. The men in the ward, who spend much of their time comparing cases, know he is in very bad condition.

The sergeant is heavily bandaged about the stomach and face. The night he was brought in, doctors worked over him for several hours, often three at a time trying to save his life.

Over the sergeant's bed there is a sign displaying the big red "1" of the 1st Infantry Division and his name, rank, serial number, unit and type of injury. It says he suffered multiple fragment wounds.

Realtors OK City Sales Tax

Ulster County Board of Realtors announced today its approval of the 2 per cent city sales tax to become effective March 1.

At a meeting of the board Thursday, a resolution was adopted commending Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan and the Common Council for passage of the sales tax measure. They cited the relief the sales tax will provide property owners of the city.

The Board of Realtors has long advocated a county-wide sales tax for the same reasons. According to reports from the meeting the board now more strongly than ever advocates that the County Legislators adopt such a county-wide sales tax to equalize the tax burden among all county residents.

If such a county sales tax was adopted the city will not be unfairly affected by its action this week, a spokesman for the board said.

Brothers Held For Charge In Ellenville

Accused of assaulting a police officer after they were arrested for disorderly conduct as the result of a fight in a tavern early today, John Keener, 19, and his brother, Frank, 23, of Main Street, Ellenville, were held by police in that village for arraignment.

Sergeant Otis Brown of the Ellenville police, who arrested the two men with Patrolman Norman Green, said he and Green investigated a complaint of a fight at the Shamrock Bar and Grill on Main Street, Ellenville, at 2:35 a. m. Brown said the Keeners were told they were under arrest for disorderly conduct and the pair allegedly assaulted the patrolman.

Others who engaged in the disturbance had left before police arrived, authorities said. The Keeners were held for arraignment before Village Police Justice Ronald Elias. The investigation will continue, authorities said.

Closet Fire

It took firemen 15 minutes Friday to extinguish a closet fire in a second-story apartment of 77 Pearl Street, officials report. Firemen said the blaze erupted in an apartment occupied by Angela Mead when a cigarette was dropped on a quilted coat in a closet. The building, owned and utilized by Frank Sterly, is a four-story brick multiple dwelling. The alarm was sounded at 3:30 p. m.

Dear Abby

Be Patient and Silent

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1967 by Chicago Tribune
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Gordon and I have been married for 6 months and I have just about had it. This is the second time around for both of us. We both have teen-aged children. His live with their mother, and mine live with us.

Gordon's ex-wife calls him almost every evening to discuss some "problem" she is having with the children. I don't call my ex-husband every night with "problems" concerning our children.

Am I wrong to object to Gordon's ex-wife bothering him so much? Now they are divorced I feel he should be finished with her. He sees his children every Sunday, and I think if his ex-wife has any problems to talk over with him, she should do it then.

I would like your opinion.
HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: Gordon may very well be "finished" with his ex-wife, but no proper father is "finished" with his children until they are grown and on their own. If Gordon feels that his ex-wife is "bothering" him, it is up to him to tell her so. If he doesn't complain, perhaps he wants to be made aware of his children's problems.

Yours is the battle nearly every woman fights when she marries a divorced man whose children live with their mother. If you are wise, you will be both patient and silent.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were divorced 4 years ago, but the flame is still burning, and we see each other quite often. Lately he has been coming over here for dinner and then we watch TV together and he sometimes stays all night. My problem is the neighbors. They know his car, and they see it parked in my driveway all night, and I understand they have been running their mouths a mile a minute. We are both more than 40 years of age, and I think what we do is our own business. Right?

TALKED ABOUT
DEAR TALKED: What you do is your business, but you should be aware that you are doing business without a license.

DEAR ABBY: Our son is going to be married to a very high class girl. I mean she comes from very high society people. The girl's mother asked me to give her a list of friends and relatives we want invited to the wedding, and she didn't set any limit. She said we could invite as many as we wanted as the church will hold 1,500 and they are inviting their whole family.

I hope I don't sound like a snob, but we have some relatives we see only at funerals, and to tell you the truth, I don't think they'll fit in very well with the girl's people. Can I invite just part of our family without inviting them all?

DEAR MOM: Everyone has relatives who won't "fit in" everywhere. If you invite the family, invite the whole family. The other side will probably have a lot of relatives who will fit in just dandy with some of your misfits.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "D". Yes, it is easier to give up smoking if one substitutes something else for it. But don't punish your friends by substituting bragging for smoking.

Tobias Stone of New York and Ivan Erdos of Los Angeles won the rubber bridge championship in 1966. The untimely death of Ivan this fall caused Stone to defend with Philip Feldesman of New York. They reached the quarter finals where they ran up against the eventual winners.

Stone's jump to four spades in one of the qualifying matches was typical rubber bridge technique. It would also have been effective in tournament play since it shut East and West out of a cheap save and five clubs which would only be set two tricks on perfect defense.

West opened the seven of hearts. Dummy played low and East's ten lost to Stone's king. At this point most rubber bridge players would have conceded a club and two hearts and taken game and rubber.

Stone saw a remote chance for an overtrick and since that 30 points might decide the match Stone went after it. He played a deuce to dummy's ace and ruffed a diamond. A low spade to the right put him back in dummy again. He ruffed another diamond and stopped for a moment to lay down his ace of clubs. East dropped the ten and was left with king-queen-deuce of the suit.

South led another trump to dummy. East, who had discarded a heart on the first trump lead, let his deuce of clubs go. Stone led and ruffed dummy's last diamond and played out his seven of clubs. East had to win the trick with the queen and no matter what he led at this point, Stone had an overtrick at his four spade contract.

Not too important in rubber bridge and it turned out to make no difference in that match, but if East had been really alert he would have managed to hang on to that deuce of clubs so that West would have been able to gain the lead and play a heart through dummy.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The famed Texas longhorns were brought to North America in 1521 by Gregorio de Villalobos, a Spanish viceroys to Mexico, reports The World Almanac. Originally, these cattle were thought to have been taken to Spain from Africa by the Moors. The horn length of a Texas longhorn ranges from three feet for bulls and 3½ feet for cows to as much as eight feet for steers.

flippant (FLIP-ent)
carefree
His flippant attitude concerning his daily routine is starting to create a morale problem in the office. The tough-looking Marine sergeant, his chest decorated with numerous battle ribbons, told his troops he would not tolerate a flippant soldier. The little girl, a flippant smile on her face, was visiting the zoo with her grandmother.

More on Whatshisname Fellow

Chicago Daily News Service
Whatshisname—it escapes me for the moment—will return Sunday night to television, where he became a household face.

He and Maureen Stapleton

OFFICE CAT

By JUNIUS
Trade Mark Reg.

George (a conceited actor boasted at a dinner) — A smash hit! Yesterday, during the last act, I had the audience glued to their seats.

Robert (a colleague) — Wonderful! Clever of you to think of it!

Whether we know it or not, we're all engaged in selling something — if not our wares, then our personalities, our services, our ideas. As a matter of fact, all human relationships are based upon selling of one kind or another, and we all engage in it whenever we undertake to persuade others to our way of thinking.

Cannibal Cook — Am I to boil the missionary, boss?

Cannibal Chief — Don't be silly; that's a friar.

The judge halted proceedings and leaned forward from the bench.

Judge Gray (to the defendant) — Look here, my man, I granted you the right to plead your own case, but you're lying so clumsily that I really think you ought to get a lawyer.

Education's first duty is to make possible the survival of our country.

A conscience isn't altogether reliable. For example, it hurts a gambler more if he loses than it does if he wins.

will star in ABC's adaptation of Truman Capote's short story, "Among the Paths to Eden."

Bach in the fifties, whatshisname—I know his name as well as my own—was ubiquitous on TV, who could forget him, as the top sergeant, the best friend, the show business agent, the gangster? And even as Captain Video?

Besides about 300 television roles, he made 23 movies, won an Oscar in 1965, and now, 47, balding and chunky, he is the typical Broadway matinee idol. Someday they may even name a sandwich after him.

Name on Tip of Tongue
His name is on the tip of my tongue... Balsam! Martin Balsam. Of course, I was just talking to him the other day.

Balsam related what fame has meant to him: "A stranger will say, 'I know you, you're... ah... whatshisname.' I tell him I'm Marty Balsam and he'll say, 'no, you're not' and walk away indignant, like I've wasted his time."

Or, said Balsam, "they'll say, 'hello, Mr. Borgine, you look much taller on the screen.' Or Eli Wallach or Herschel Bernardi without a beard. I give them an autograph — whoever they think I am."

Balsam became more recognizable after winning an Academy Award for his performance in "A Thousand Clowns," and starring currently in the Broadway comedy, "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running."

Success has not perceptibly changed Balsam. "The Academy Award forced me to buy a tuxedo. I used to rent one for charities and other appearances. There is more demand now but I'm selective.

"It's too late for me to be loved differently. People say, 'he's just like us.' I don't know what people expect — a big hat, collotties? I don't go in for fanfare.

"It would be very foolish of me to take on airs. I'm typecast as the average man. People would say, 'where do you come off being successful... portly, bald, middle-aged. It's a very good compliment to be called the average man. It generally represents a large group of men. You rarely think of these men as leading men.'"

Plays a Widower
In "Among the Paths to Eden," Balsam plays a widower who meets Miss Stapleton in a cemetery where he is placing flowers on his wife's grave. Miss Stapleton is a spinster, looking for a live one, among the bereaved husbands, to marry.

"It's touching, humorous, sad, and human," Balsam said. "Capote has done it in so honest a manner, so easily and realistically, that I had no feeling of acting."

It is a more conventional role than the one he plays on Broadway, there he portrays a down-at-the-heels actor who agrees to take a part in which he has to appear on stage naked. He actually does wear a blob of a hairpiece and strips to his striped shorts.

Balsam said, "It's in its ninth month and we're all astonished. I've taken another three months. I figured a year would be enough.

"Actually," he recalled, "they wanted me to do either of two more leading parts but they just had more weight of oines. I took the part that was the most interesting to do."

Balsam's intensity about his craft stems in part from his days as a charter member of the almost mythical and mangled actors studio in New York. His schoolmates included Warren Stevens, Nehemiah Persoff, Cloris Leachman, Richard Boone, Lee Grant and Don Hammer. Whatever happened to Don Hammer?

"It's ridiculous," said Balsam of the "accusations" flung against the studio and its fabled "method" of acting. "At one point it could do no wrong. But no school teaches you to mumble or scratch. We were involved in reality. Brando was mumbling and scratching and it was successful but he never really attended classes that much."

"But people associated the studio with him. He's a favorite of mine and he does some very courageous things. He doesn't play it safe."

'Method' Key Factor
Balsam said "the method" has been "the most significant force in my life. Its connotation is with being trees, rocks, rising sunsets but the whole thing is to stimulate imagination."

"It sharpens the tools of observation about what a person does in a given situation to get close to the truth of yourself. It's a technique to be used when I get into real trouble," said Mr. Borgine.

More on Whatshisname Fellow

Chicago Daily News Service
Whatshisname—it escapes me for the moment—will return Sunday night to television, where he became a household name.

He and Maureen Stapleton

By JUNIUS
Trade Mark Reg.

George (a conceited actor boasted at a dinner) — A smash hit! Yesterday, during the last act, I had the audience glued to their seats.

Robert (a colleague) — Wonderful! Clever of you to think of it!

Whether we know it or not, we're all engaged in selling something — if not our wares, then our personalities, our services, our ideas. As a matter of fact, all human relationships are based on selling of one kind or another, and we all engage in it whenever we undertake to persuade others to our way of thinking.

Cannibal Cook — Am I to boil the missionary, boss?
Cannibal Chief — Don't be silly; that's a friar.

The judge halted proceedings and leaned forward from the bench.
Judge Gray (to the defendant) — Look here, my man, I granted you the right to plead your own case, but you're lying so clumsily that I really think you ought to get a lawyer.

Education's first duty is to make possible the survival of our country.

A conscience isn't altogether reliable. For example, it hurts a gambler more if he loses than it does if he wins.

will star in ABC's adaptation of Truman Capote's short story, "Among the Paths to Eden."

Bach in the fifties, whatshisname—I know his name as well as my own—was ubiquitous on TV, who could forget him, the top sergeant, the best friend, the show business agent, the gangster? And even as Captain Video?

Besides about 300 television roles, he made 23 movies, won an Oscar in 1965, and now, 47, balding and chunky, he is the typical Broadway matinee idol. Someday they may even name a sandwich after him.

Name on Tip of Tongue
His name is the tip of my tongue. Balsam! Martin Balsam. Of course, I was just talking to him the other day.

Balsam related what fame has meant to him: "A stranger will say, 'I know you, you're ah, what's your name.' I tell him I'm Marty Balsam and he'll say, 'no, you're not' and walk away in a huff, like I've wasted his time."

Or, said Balsam, "they'll say, 'hello, Mr. Borgine, you look much taller on the screen.' 'Or Eli Walach or Herschel Bernardi without a beard. I give them an autograph — whoever they think I am."

Balsam became more recognizable after winning an Academy Award for his performance in "A Thousand Clowns," and starring currently in the Broadway comedy, "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running."

Success has not perceptibly changed Balsam. "The Academy Award forced me to buy a tuxedo. I used to rent one for charities and other appearances. There is more demand now but I'm selective."

"It's too late for me to be have differently. People say, 'he's just like us.' I don't know what people expect — a big hat, a cane? I don't go in for fanfare."

"It would be very foolish of me to take on airs. I'm typecast as the average man. People would say, 'where do you come off being successful — a portly, bald, middle-aged. It's a very good compliment to be called the average man. It generally represents a large group of men. You rarely think of these men as leading men.'"

Plays a Widower
In "Among the Paths to Eden," Balsam plays a widower who meets Miss Stapleton in a cemetery where he is placing flowers on his wife's grave. Miss Stapleton is a spinster, looking for a live one, among the bereaved husbands, to marry.

"It's touching, humorous, sad, and human," Balsam said. "Capote has done it in so honest a manner, so easily and realistically, that I had no feeling of acting."

It is a more conventional role than the one he plays on Broadway, where he portrays a down-at-the-heels actor who agrees to take a part in which he has to appear on stage naked. He actually does wear a blob of a hairpiece and strips to his striped shorts.

Balsam said, "It's in its ninth month and we're all astonished. I've taken another three months. I figured a year would be enough."

"Actually," he recalled, "they wanted me to do either of two more leading parts but they just had more weight of roles. I took the part that was the most interesting to do."

Balsam's intensity about his craft stems in part from his days as a charter member of the almost mythical and maligned actors studio in New York. His schoolmates included Warren Stevens, Nehemiah Persoff, Cloris Leachman, Richard Boone, Lee Grant and Don Hammer. Whatever happened to Don Hammer?

"It's ridiculous," said Balsam, "the 'accusations' flung against the studio and its fabled 'method' of acting. 'At one point it could do no wrong. But no school teaches you to mumble or scratch. We were involved in reality. Brando was mumbling and scratching and it was successful but he never really attended classes that much."

"But people associated the studio with him. He's a favorite of mine and he does some very courageous things. He doesn't play it safe."

'Method' Key Factor
Balsam said "the method" has been "the most significant force in my life. Its connotation is with being trees, rocks, rising sunsets but the whole thing is to stimulate imagination."

"It sharpens the tools of observation about what a person does in a given situation to get close to the truth of yourself. It's a technique to be used when I get into real trouble," said Mr. Borgine.

Like Arctic Wasteland

Snow Traps 2,000

GRANTS, N.M. (AP) — Stranded motorists, from truck drivers to honeymooners, surveyed the 20-inch snow that trapped them at Grants and shared the sentiment of one of their number:

"It looks like an arctic wasteland out there," said Irving Rapaport of Albuquerque, N.M.

Rapaport, uranium mining official, was among an estimated 1,500 to 2,000 persons stranded Friday at Grants after a storm halted traffic on U.S. 66 and Interstate 40. Gov. David F. Cargo declared an emergency and National Guardsmen rushed in supplies.

46 Inches at Flagstaff

The storm held much of the Southwest in its grip. Forty-six inches of snow were reported at Flagstaff in northern Arizona, where traffic on U.S. 66 also had stopped for the most part. Twenty-eight inches of snow were reported at Winslow.

Rapaport was in Grants to try and get to his nearby mine. "We haven't been able to get out to the mines for two days," he said. "We tried to bulldoze our way through, but the drifts piled back up the minute we went through."

Highways in the area opened on a "travel at your own risk" basis late Friday and traffic began moving slowly out of Grants.

For Period Ending 7 A.M. EST Sunday

Tonight, snow is expected from the Lower Lakes into the St. Lawrence Valley, and in the Northern and Central portions of the Plains and Plateau regions. Rain is forecast for the Southern Plains, Lower Mississippi Valley, and the Gulf Coast. Fair to partly cloudy skies will prevail elsewhere in the nation. Colder weather is anticipated for the Pacific Northwest, Southwestern Plains, and much of the East Coast. Little or no change in temperature elsewhere. Minimum temperature forecasts include: Atlanta 32; Boston 20; Chicago 27; Cleveland 23; Denver 10; Duluth 14; Ft. Worth 36; Jacksonville 43; Little Rock 36; Los Angeles 37; Miami 66; New York 26; Phoenix 27; San Francisco 36; St. Louis 30; and Washington 27.

Dirksen Challenges LBJ's Charge That GOPers Are Wooden Soldiers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, challenging President Johnson's charge that Republicans are wooden soldiers, says they supply the congressional troops which have sustained "the live soldiers in Vietnam."

"You talk about those wooden Republican soldiers," the Illinois senator said, "don't forget that those are the soldiers who have been standing behind the President during all this difficulty in Vietnam while his own troops were pelting and pummeling him on the Senate floor and on television."

Ty Rebutter

The Senate Republican leader and House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan supplied a televised rebuttal Friday night to Johnson's assertion Tuesday that the GOP is composed of "wooden soldiers of the status quo."

"The only program that Grand Old Party offers is the remains of what they have backed into and run over in the road, the bits and pieces of what someone else has built," the President told the AFL-CIO convention in Miami Beach, Fla. Johnson's speech was broadcast by the three major networks.

Republicans demanded and got equal television time to reply. Dirksen said that in the minds of many Americans, the status quo is "the fix we're in" under Democratic leadership.

"We Republicans are against the status quo," Ford said. "We are solidly fighting the Johnson administration inflation, the Johnson administration high-interest rates."

"We believe the American people deserve a better deal," Ford said.

"Are we in a fix?" said Dirksen. "The imbalance of payments, the debt goes up while the gold goes down."

"And the prices go up," Ford said. "And crime goes up," said Dirksen.

House Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma panned the Dirksen-Ford performance as "one of the oldest reruns in American political history."

Other political developments: —In Omaha, Neb., former Vice President Richard M. Nixon told a Creighton University student gathering the GOP could learn something from the Democrats when it comes to smoothing over breaches in party unity.

"Democrats can have some very bitter fights, but when they get down to the wire they usually unite for the purpose of winning," Nixon said.

In this respect, Republicans will act "more like Democrats" in next year's elections and "as a result get more Democratic votes," he said.

—George C. Wallace said his campaign for some 66,000 signatures to qualify as a third-party presidential candidate in California has passed the 52,000 mark. The former Alabama governor has until Jan. 2 to reach his goal.

Stassen's Idea

—Harold E. Stassen, perennial seeker of the GOP presidential nomination, said in Philadelphia that placing a United Nations police force between the two Vietnams and inviting both nations into the UN might be a means of ending the war.

Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, speaking in the House, twitted Gov. George Romney of Michigan for being in England "where there's a terrific outbreak of hoof-and-mouth disease, and you know he's just got to be a carrier." Hays also had a barb for Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., whose inspection party came under enemy fire in Vietnam earlier this week. Percy, he said, was "pointing his pistol one way while looking the other way into the camera."

Gregory Treasurer for 45th

In this respect, Republicans will act "more like Democrats" in next year's elections and "as a result get more Democratic votes," he said.

—George C. Wallace said his campaign for some 66,000 signatures to qualify as a third-party presidential candidate in California has passed the 52,000 mark. The former Alabama governor has until Jan. 2 to reach his goal.

Stassen's Idea

—Harold E. Stassen, perennial seeker of the GOP presidential nomination, said in Philadelphia that placing a United Nations police force between the two Vietnams and inviting both nations into the UN might be a means of ending the war.

—Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, speaking in the House, twitted Gov. George Romney of Michigan for being in England "where there's a terrific outbreak of hoof-and-mouth disease, and you know he's just got to be a carrier." Hays also had a barb for Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., whose inspection party came under enemy fire in Vietnam earlier this week. Percy, he said, was "pointing his pistol one way while looking the other way into the camera."

Franzese Acquitted

NEW YORK (AP) — A State Supreme Court jury today acquitted John "Sonny" Franzese and three associates charged in a 1964 gangland murder.

Franzese's trim, blonde wife, who waited outside the Queens courtroom while the foreman read the all-male jury's verdict at 12:45 a.m., broke down and sobbed with relief.

Justice Albert H. Bosch hushed a spatter of applause at the verdict. Franzese and codefendants Joseph M. "Whitey" Florio, William "Red" Crabbe and Thomas Matteo hugged relatives in the courtroom.

County Employees Organize Chapter

Mrs. Mary Weber of the Health Department and Margaret Neenan of the Department of Social Services, both members of the units nominating committee, reported on the results of the committees' work and after accepting further nominations from the floor announced the following slate of candidates for office for 1968:

A Simple Manger Scene Inspires

Few who love Christmas as the most wondrous holiday of the year would argue the fact that the most inspirational story told during the Yule holiday season is that narrated through the Living Nativity. Fortunately, for Ulster County's many children and those parents who have not forgotten such enchantments, members of Kingston's Old Dutch Church will again reenact this custom of Noel from Dec. 19 to 24. Each evening from 7 to 9 p. m. on those dates, the Living Nativity will be staged at the church on the corner of Wall and Main Streets in the county seat.

1967 marks the 18th anniversary of this particular event which has attracted hundreds from both Kingston and the entire Hudson Valley to the churchyard during the Christmas season.

For those who will be planning to visit the scene this year, some brief history of the Living Nativity should be appropriate here. This Christmas tradition has become highly popular in recent years in this country, although it is said to have originated in the church perhaps as early as the 8th century.

He Popularized It

It was the beloved St. Francis of Assisi who popularized the reenactment of the birth of the Christ child as part of the Christmas observance when he set up a simple manger scene in the little town of Greccio, Italy, in 1224.

Before formulating his plans,

St. Francis went to Rome to discuss with Pope Honorius III in person the idea of setting up a nativity scene as a living tribute to Christmas. The Pope gave his consent and a wealthy nobleman offered to help St. Francis prepare the representation. The stage was set when the necessary properties were assembled. These included the manger, straw, live animals and real people to breathe life into the parts of Mary, Joseph and the shepherds.

An instant attraction, it was all the more so because St. Francis begged his audience to put hatred from their hearts and to think only of peace at the Christmas season.

Centuries later and in a year when peace in Vietnam is uppermost in many minds, members of Kingston's Old Dutch Church congregation will again portray Mary, Joseph, the Wisemen and Shepherds. The local Nativity Scene will present a holiday portrait of Mary and Joseph watching over the Baby Jesus. The stable, specially constructed for the event, will come to life to form a background for the portrayal . . . and area children will be delighted with the live animals, including a donkey, calf and sheep, grazing in and around the enclosed area to add to the reality of the age-old scene.

Carols From Tower

To lend traditional atmosphere, Christmas carols will be amplified from the church tower. The production will require the participation of two complete casts in authentic costume to bring this realistic presentation to the public each evening. And, of course, the public is cordially invited to view the Living Nativity in Kingston at any of the hours listed above, and to—hopefully—be inspired by the true meaning of Christmas. Still, biblical as the scene will be, its fame has attracted to it a modern touch this year, and to do a feature documentary on the historic old church. There's a dual appeal then this year in not only seeing the magic of the Magi created before your eyes . . . but in possibly seeing yourself on a television screen before the month ends.

IT'S A WISE MAN who asks a lady's help in matters concerning sartorial splendor, and Garry and Barry Boehm, who play Kings of the Orient (or the Wise Men of the biblical legend), are happy to have Marcia Mogel assisting with their attire for manger scene to be re-created and brought to life here from Dec. 19 to 24. You Say You Can Only Spend $1,100 on Christmas ...??

LIKE LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD, who couldn't believe Grandma's big teeth, this little girl in a 1967 model hood can't believe this chess set is for real. It's real all right . . . and if it's been a tough year for you financially—what with the stock market's erratic behavior—it may be the perfect answer for the gift giver with a man who has everything on his list. Set was handmade of wood in Spain and boasts hand-painted chess pieces, all nine inches tall. It comes complete with its own playing board (a table that's a beautiful piece of furniture in its own right), with pull-out slots underneath for storage of rooks and pawns. The knights and castles are miniature works of art and it sells for only $600 at Folk Art gift shop on Rock City Road in Woodstock. (Freeman photo by Haines)

RAVI SHANKAR has gained international fame by recording and playing concerts on a sitar exactly like this one. Made in India by hand from a gourd as tall as a man, it's vivid burnt orange in color and ornately embellished with inlaid ivory and sterling silver. Light as a feather and just waiting for some talented musician, it's also at Woodstock's Folk Art and can be yours for the asking—provided you've got the purchase price of $500. An Innovative Arts Festival

17-KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN, DEC. 16, 1967

A totally unique project which will serve not only Ulster, but five adjoining counties, and which will function as a pilot program in the performing arts, has been given the final financial nod.

The Festival of the Performing Arts of Sullivan County (technically, a Title III project of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act) has been approved for 100 per cent non-matching funding in the amount of $97,000.

The massive and highly financed project planned will serve the Mid-Hudson Region (Ulster, Sullivan, Orange, Putnam, Dutchess, and Upper Westchester counties) and will be a testing ground for performing arts programs envisioned by the New York State Education Department.

Innovative Project

Dr. Fritz Hess, superintendent of Liberty Schools, who serves as legal educational applicant for the program, and

Dr. Raymond G. Kenyon, director of the Mid-Hudson Regional Center at New Paltz, were on hand at a negotiations session in Albany recently to determine the final approved budget for operating the innovative project. Also in attendance were representatives from the Office of Education, Washington, D. C., and from the Arts and Humanities section of the N. Y. State Education Department.

School districts which have committed themselves to participation in this unusual pilot program include: Summitville, Monticello, Delaware Valley Central at Callicoon, Fallsburgh, Livingston Manor, Jefferson-Youngsville Central, Eldred, Tri-Valley Central at Grahamsville, and Roscoe.

The Festival will be a coordinated effort to bring outstanding professional talent to the area in the fields of dance, opera, drama, music, and theatre—and programs are planned for both urban and rural regions. Basic aim of the program is to expose geographically isolated students, teachers, and communities to the important cultural values to be derived from quality in-residence performing arts. Today's educators feel strongly that a knowledge of the arts is necessary to each and every individual in this age of mobile life, if environmental relocation is to be facilitated.

Exposure to the Arts

The Festival will offer arts exposure to elementary and secondary school children throughout the Mid-Hudson region. Miss Irma Gray, who will serve as project director when the program goes into operation next month, puts it this way:

"We hope to develop a systems approach which will make it possible to adapt this model to other regions and school systems, and to provide cultural and curriculum enrichment for students in a geographically isolated area. We want to use the performing arts as tools for the development of students' cognitive and conceptualizing skills, and to promote student and teacher participation in planning, evaluation and dissemination functions. And, last but not least, we want to promote community participation."

Toward this end, an initial planning meeting on the Festival was held at Lincoln Center, New York City, this month. Luminaries from the State Education Department, State University System, Diocese of New York City, State Council on the Arts, Monroe-Woodbury Central Schools, Newburgh City Schools, Middletown Arts Council and Marist College attended. Other representatives came from the Mid-Hudson Regional Supplementary Education Center and the State University College at New Paltz, the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society, Liberty Central School, Orange County Community College and Lincoln Center.

Of Broad Scope

Legal applicant Dr. Hess told TEMPO this week that, although the project will emanate from Sullivan County, it will be definitely regional in nature. He added that the fact that representatives of educational and cultural agencies from throughout the Mid-Hudson region, as well as representatives of the State Education Department and the State University system, have met to discuss and formulate this pilot program, underscores the broad scope of the Festival.

Accomplishments at the Manhattan meeting included a description of the broad aspects of the projects, a discussion of Lincoln Center involvement, and preparation for setting up a regional planning group.

The next regional planning meeting is tentatively scheduled for Wednesday, Jan. 3, at State University of New York, New Paltz. Representatives of any educational and cultural agencies in the Mid-Hudson region are invited to attend, and further information may be obtained from the Mid-Hudson Regional Supplementary Educational Center, New Paltz, by phone.

A New Session of TAP Workshops

A new session of workshops in TAP (Talented Art Program) has begun, with students from many schools in the Mid-Hudson Region participating in intensive Saturday workshops with three eminent craftsmen—Ronald Burke, ceramics; Marie Frey, silver and enameling, and Berta Frey, weaving. The students participating in this session, which will continue until April, have all taken part in earlier workshops and have been recommended for advanced study by TAP craftsmen. They are:

Craftsman: Berta Frey — Susie Goddard, Nancy Harris, Diane Barrett, all of Woodstock; Julius Vitarius, Ulster Park; Leslie Boucher, Kingston; Patricia Adels, Shokan; Michael Breakell, Phoenicia; Kathleen Wilson, Tillson.

Craftsman: Marie Frey — Jeanne Goddard, Corrinne Hutchinson, both of Woodstock; Elyse Adin, Joseph Duffy, Teri Cerych, all of Kingston; Janice Welton, Teresa Prothe, both of Saugerties; Susan Morseman, Lee Ann Houseman, both of Woodstock; Nancy Sleight, Hurley.

Craftsman: Ronald Burke — Jeannine Guertin, Middletown; John Esposito, Marlboro; Raymond Dutkiewicz, Judith Krinsky, both of Middletown; Domnick Denisi, Andrea Mueller, both of Newburgh; Carla Paltridge, Modena; Mike deCaterina, Newburgh; Tracey Bregman, Monroe.

TAP is a unique program for artistically talented students which is operated with Federal funds under Title III, Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Henry Hopper, superintendent of Ulster County BOCES, legal educational applicant, administers funds for this project on behalf of the entire Mid-Hudson Region (Dutchess, Putnam, Orange, Sullivan, Ulster and Upper Westchester Counties). The project is currently being operated at his request as legal applicant, by the Mid-Hudson Regional Supplementary Educational Center, New Paltz, the Title III center for the Mid-Hudson Region. Mrs. Irma E. Gray, assistant regional director for the Center, is also serving as project director for TAP.

The current intensive session was designed to carry out recommendations made at an evaluation conference held in June, in which craftsmen, teachers, parents and expert consultants participated. Further evaluation of the educational effectiveness of this project is being carried out through a series of questionnaires which have been addressed to all past participants, including parents of students who have taken part in TAP workshops.

A session of workshops for students who have not previously participated in TAP is planned to start early in 1968.

Li Pira Works Carved in Wood

An exhibit by the sculptor, Samuel Li Pira may be viewed by the public in the entrance hall of Mount Saint Mary College. The art pieces shown are carved from wood.

Samuel Li Pira has been a professional sculptor for the past 14 years. He has exhibited his wood carvings at the Museum of Fine Arts in Springfield, Mass., Fine Arts Center, Hunterdon County, Art Association of Newport, R. I., and Cape Cod Art Association, Hyannisport, Mass., and has won several awards in California and New Jersey. He will exhibit his work next spring at the City Hall in Trenton.

According to the artist, "the smooth polished surface of the 'Graduate' (one work in the show) represents the refinement of education and the hollow depth in his education." The other pieces on display are: "Apollo," "Prometheus," "Bishops in Consultation," and "Sacred Heart."

Another exhibit is also set up in the college entrance hall on the Newburgh campus. Ukrainian tapestries, cruet work and wooden book bindings comprise this attraction, as well as a few pieces of hand-painted china.

Students to be selected for these workshops must be nominated by their school art or classroom teachers. Application forms will be mailed directly to the teachers within a few weeks.

Anyone wishing further information about TAP may phone Mrs. Gray at the Mid-Hudson Regional Supplementary Educational Center.

Li Pira Works Carved in Wood

An exhibit by the sculptor, Samuel Li Pira may be viewed by the public in the entrance hall of Mount Saint Mary College. The art pieces shown are carved from wood.

Samuel Li Pira has been a professional sculptor for the past 14 years. He has exhibited his wood carvings at the Museum of Fine Arts in Springfield, Mass., Fine Arts Center, Hunterdon County, Art Association of Newport, R. I., and Cape Cod Art Association, Hyannisport, Mass., and has won several awards in California and New Jersey. He will exhibit his work next spring at the City Hall in Trenton.

According to the artist, "the smooth polished surface of the 'Graduate' (one work in the show) represents the refinement of education and the hollow depth in his education." The other pieces on display are: "Apollo," "Prometheus," "Bishops in Consultation," and "Sacred Heart."

Another exhibit is also set up in the college entrance hall on the Newburgh campus. Ukrainian tapestries, cruelle work and wooden book bindings comprise this attraction, as well as a few pieces of hand-painted china.

TV's Highlights and Sidelights

Even before its video release, Truman Capote's tender and touching story "Among the Paths to Eden," is being lauded as "the most visually lovely film ever seen." And it was the hard-to-please perfectionist Capote himself who said it.

Frank Perry's production of Capote's short story will be presented by Xerox on ABC-TV this Sunday, Dec. 17, 8-9 p.m. Eastern time. The simplicity of the story is a far cry from the glitter and glamor of the author's now-historic "Masked Ball" at the Plaza Hotel last year. As a one-hour TV play starring Martin Balsam and Maureen Stapleton, it promises to be a visual delight, was written long before Capote startled the nation with "In Cold Blood," and takes place entirely in a cemetery.

In this setting spinster lady Maureen goes to the cemetery looking for a husband. She figures that a man who's been happily married once will probably want to get married again, and what better place could there be to meet a widower than in a cemetery? While she's wandering around among the graves, she meets some very funny people — but she also encounters a nice man, Martin Balsam, who hasn't remarried since his wife died a year ago. Despite the setting, Paths to Eden is far from grim and will probably be the video highlight of the coming week.

It is TEMPO's considered opinion that someday a National Geographic will fail to be the essence of television excellence, but that day has not yet arrived. "Winged World" this week was a remarkably beautiful and at the same time, not so beautiful, documentary on the millions of lovely and not so lovely feathered inhabitants of the skies. Truly stunning photography on wings in motion and an eye-opening examination of the mysteries of migration. TEMPO also liked Mr. Dickens of London (televised Tuesday); felt it was a must for anyone who has ever read any of the works of Charles Dickens. Shot entirely in England from Westminster Abbey to the site of the old debtors' prison, it had hostess Juliet Mills meeting up with the apparition of Dickens, played by Sir Michael Redgrave. Together they toured the places familiar to millions through the pages of Oliver Twist, David Copperfield, Pickwick Papers and many others. Redgrave was tremendous in the emotional recitation of the murder of Nancy by Bill Sykes from Oliver Twist.

And how about this for a TEMPO tribute? The Andy Williams Christmas Show, seen Wednesday night, gets our award for Wholesomest Show of the Year. It featured the singer and his wife and their two children, plus Andy's Mom and Dad and his three brothers and their families, as well as some other brothers, the Osmonds.

Our knock of the month goes to the TV adaptation of the tense dramatic play "The Desperate Hours" on this week's Movie Night Special. It might have been a major achievement of the video year had the commercial insertions not been allowed to constantly dilute the escalating excitement. Even so, George Segal was excellent as the leader of three escaping convicts who invade a quiet suburban home, making the family their captives. Excellent, too, was Arthur Hill as the frustrated and tormented father.

Your homescreen will fairly sparkle during the coming week and most of the attractions are star-studded and spangled for that "Christmasy" feeling. Among the best:

"AMONG THE PATHS TO EDEN" is one which leads to a cemetery—the locale for the tender, sometimes humorous story by Truman Capote, starring Maureen Stapleton and Martin Balsam. ABC airs the special this Sunday, Dec. 17, 8-9 p.m. Eastern time.

Paltz Professor Back From USSR

Dr. Jeremiah Schneiderman, associate professor of Russian history at State University College, New Paltz, has returned to the United States from the Soviet Union after a two month research tour supported by a grant from the American Philosophical Society.

In the USSR, Dr. Schneiderman spoke with scholars in the Institute of History at the Academy of Sciences in Moscow and the University of Minsk. He conducted his research on the history of the Zubatov movement 1898 to 1903.

Zubatov, a Russian leader loyal to the Czar, attempted during that period to improve the economic conditions of factory workers through union-type organization as a means of strengthening their loyalty toward the Czar. His efforts, though technically illegal, were condoned by high government officials. However, both Lenin-Marxist groups and the industrial right opposed the movement, and it collapsed when Zubatov was removed from his position following a general strike in Odessa which grew out of his work, the Paltz professor notes.

The New Paltz historian has conducted extensive research on the Zubatov movement and last winter was awarded a State University grant to work on a book which he is presently writing on the subject. He also visited the USSR in 1959-60 as an Exchange Fellow at Leningrad University, and this year met a number of his former associates there. He also visited Lvov and Minsk and did research in Paris in the archives of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs at Quai d'Orsay.

He left New York for London on September 1 and proceeded from there to Moscow aboard a Russian "Aeroflot" airline jet. He returned to his New Paltz residence late last month and will be on leave to continue work on his book until April 1968.

Row Over Dutchman

Paris (AP) — A row over Le-Roi Jones' play "Dutchman" caused a management upheaval at the Dramatic Center in Montpelier.

The mayor of the city banned the drama as "audacious, erotic, politically violent." The ruling was followed immediately by the resignation of Antoine Bourseiller as head of the theater.

CLEAN Some streaking above vents and radiators may occur with all types of modern heating systems — oil, gas and electricity, but are not caused by the heating fuel. They occur because this is where air is hottest and circulated most, and air carries dust, dirt and grime brought indoors on shoes, through open windows, etc. As to "film" on windows, analysis has proved that 90% comes from cooking odors, cigar or cigarette smoke.

SAFE Oil is non-explosive. It is true, of course, all modern fuels are relatively safe—if handled and consumed in the prescribed manner. But when systems fail — those with OIL HEAT are SAFE. PLUS—OIL

Paltz Professor Back From USSR

Dr. Jeremiah Schneiderman, associate professor of Russian history at State University College, New Paltz, has returned to the United States from the Soviet Union after a two month research tour supported by a grant from the American Philosophical Society.

In the USSR, Dr. Schneiderman spoke with scholars in the Institute of History at the Academy of Sciences in Moscow and the University of Minsk. He conducted his research on the history of the Zubatov movement 1898 to 1903.

Zubatov, a Russian leader loyal to the Czar, attempted during that period to improve the economic conditions of factory workers through union-type organization as a means of strengthening their loyalty toward the Czar. His efforts, though technically illegal, were condoned by high government officials. However, both Lenin-Marxist groups and the industrial right opposed the movement, and it collapsed when Zubatov was removed from his position following a general strike in Odessa which grew out of his work, the Paltz professor notes.

The New Paltz historian has conducted extensive research on the Zubatov movement and last winter was awarded a State University grant to work on a book which he is presently writing on the subject. He also visited the USSR in 1959-60 as an Exchange Fellow at Leningrad University, and this year met a number of his former associates there. He also visited Lvov and Minsk and did research in Paris in the archives of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs at Quai d'Orsay.

He left New York for London on September 1 and proceeded from there to Moscow aboard a Russian "Aeroflot" airline jet. He returned to his New Paltz residence late last month and will be on leave to continue work on his book until April 1968.

CLAMBAKE. Elvis Presley throws the wildest beach party since the invention of the bikini and the big beat, cooks up a storm while broiling whole chickens and baked potatoes on the beach, and belts out eight new songs in this Technicolor frolic. Miami Beach furnishes the background for the musical romance, now playing through Tuesday at Kingston's Community Theatre.

And Elvis hits the beach in high style and with a pace change. He's involved in the dangerous and unique world of ski boat racing, but manages to remain sincere and sensitive through it all. Shelley Fabares keeps her third cinematic "date" with Elvis in "Clambake," and other co-stars are Will Hutchins, Bill Bixby, James Gregory and Gary Merrill.

There are some good scenes of daredevil ski boat racers challenging the clock and each other in the pursuit of new records, if you like that sort of thing. Film clips of the actual Orange Bowl International Power Boat Regatta were used to achieve an authentic look. Elvis gets a chance to drive the Raw Hide, which won the Parker Dam Grand Prix in Arizona, and Bill Bixby eases in behind the wheel of champion diver Lou Brummett's Scarlet Lady, a brand new boat scheduled for entry in top races.

When he's not racing, the ex-Memphis high school guitar player is dancing his way through more of those seemingly endless musical production-numbers expected by his fans. This time around, there's a chorus of beautiful girls all right . . . but they're all between the ages of 8 and 12. This shouldn't keep graduate girl-watchers away, however, because there's a whole beach full of beauties and contest winners for them.

All in all, there's little to be gained from knocking an Elvis extravaganza. After all, he's had a phenomenal career, has sold more records in the past two years than ever before, shows a remarkable ability to span the so-called "generation gap," has proved he was no flash-in-the-pan, and "Clambake" is—let's face it—his 25th motion picture.

GAMES. Here's a suspenseful thriller in which a wealthy, bored young couple and their house guest, Simone Signoret, amuse themselves with sophisticated games that suddenly become sinister.

The setting for this gasper-getting shocker is a New York brownstone and it's the sleekest pad ever used on the macabre thriller circuit. Since it's the home of a young Mod couple who spend their time and the wealthy wife's money collecting pop and op art and giving way-out parties, it's all decked out avant-garde. Modern art valued at almost a half-million dollars decorates the walls of the apartment of these young swingers (played by James Caan and Katherine Ross). Price heavy treasures rounded up for the film include pre-Columbian sculptures, Lichtenstein paintings, George Segal statues and Renate Druks paintings.

The game-room is even groovier, and chock full of pin-ball machines and other penny arcade paraphernalia, comic strip cartoons and psychedelic lighting effects.

Even so, it's a boring life until Simone Signoret, who poses as a friend of a friend, checks in as a semi-permanent guest. With the same rare form she displayed in her Academy Oscar winning role in "Room at the Top," she beguiles her hosts with tales of her fascinating European past. Naturally, such a continental sophisticate would be amused at the simple games of these untutored moderns—and she encourages them to branch out into more enlightened forms of fun.

One of these newly recommended games has the wife pretending to seduce a delivery boy, and the husband pretending to be jealous. But when the scared juvenile shows up as a corpse, the games are over—and bizarre passion and terror reign supreme. In the expensively "campy" house with its spooky elevator, the plot spins along to its creepy eventual outcome—and it's a toss-up as to whether the wife or the audience does the most screaming.

It's all good fun and it's on screen now through Tuesday at the Mayfair Theatre in Kingston. It's well worth seeing because nobody—but nobody—can lay out tarot cards or peer into a crystal ball like Miss Signoret.

BANNING. Playing side by side with "Games" at the Mayfair, this fast moving romantic drama stars a group of talented newer stars. All known for their aggressive and enthusiastic verve, they include Robert Wagner, Anjanette Comer, Jill St. John, Guy Stockwell, James Farentino and Sean Garrison. By combining forces, they do an interesting and explosive job and help to build the story suspensefully to its climax.

Wagner plays professional golfer Mike Banning, who uses people indebted to him to get a job as assistant pro at a country club, which means Farentino loses the job he thought would be his. There is more to this than meets the eye, however, for "Banning" is an alias used to cover an unsavory incident in a tournament elsewhere during the golfer's previous career. Still, he's a handsome man and the club's female members see him as a romantic target, with wealthy Miss St. John leading the pack . . . while Wagner finds the club's social director, Miss Comer, far more to his liking. Best scene in this fast-paced story is when the club management decides to hold a "Calcutta," a golf tourney where players are "bought" at auc-

Miss St. John "buys" Wagner (well, haven't women always liked to gamble for men) and the tourney comes up with some interesting winners and losers.

If you like golf, you'll like "Banning," and, for good measure, the producer has thrown in some lavish settings, a priceless collection of world famous statuary, stunning costumes, and locales that are as beautiful as the colored camera eye can capture them.

And Still More

Local movie-goers will also want to be apprised of the fact that "The Killers" makes up the second half of the current bill at the Community, along with "Clambake." It's a re-issue that should cash in on the popularity of its stars, Lee Marvin and Angie Dickinson, who are currently knocking 'em dead in the newer "Point Blank."

The big Christmas attraction at the Community, beginning Wednesday, December 20, will be "The Bible," director John Huston's cinematic interpretation of how it all was "in the beginning." Cast includes Stephen Boyd, Ava Gardner, Richard Harris, Huston, Peter O'Toole, Michael Parks in the unadorned flesh as Adam, and George C. Scott.

Light entertainment will be the order of the Christmas season over at the Mayfair when "Fitzwilly" with Dick Van Dyke opens a holiday run, beginning Wednesday, Dec. 20.

The Woodstock Theatre is currently offering, through Monday, a fine film based on the stage play created by angry young Negro LeRoi Jones. This would be DUTCHMAN (reviewed in this column last week). It's one we personally wouldn't have missed, but prospective viewers should be warned it's potent stuff on the racial wars between black and white. Interestingly enough, it was so controversial it could not be filmed on a New York subway (where it takes place) but had to move its cameras to England to recreate American prejudice. Music for the film was furnished gratis by a composer who was attracted by what he felt was its powerful message, he waived monetary recompense.

And if you take your movie medicine in Saugerties, the Orpheum Theatre there is switching flicks as fast as it can reel them off this week. Tonight, "Up the Down Staircase," based on the year's No. 1 best seller and starring Oscar winner Sandy Dennis, is playing. Sunday afternoon, there's a matinee for the kids, featuring Jay North of Dennis the Menace fame in "Zebra in the Kitchen" and Jock Mahoney as the Apeman es." Sunday and Monday are "adults only" nights, since "The Game Is Over," with Jane Fonda and Peter McEnery is considered too spicy for those under 18. Tuesday night, the Orpheum offers its annual Joseph W. Rrankel memorial Christmas kiddie show — and it's free. That brings us up to Wednesday, Dec. 20, when Audrey Hepburn and Peter O'Toole instruct the Orpheum audience on "How to Steal a Million." :TOBIE GEERTSEMA)

Plays Re-Exported

NEW YORK (AP) — The off-Broadway producers of two plays from Africa plan to send a touring company to Africa.

"The Trials of Brother Jero" and "The Strong Breed," written by Wole Soyinka of Nigeria, are being transferred to enlarged quarters here on the strength of critical and public interest.

Kenneth Farris, cosponsor of the show with his wife Cynthia Belgrave, said they are interested in exporting a troupe to Lagos, Nigeria, as a measure of support for Soyinka, a political prisoner in his homeland.

KATHERINE MONTGOMERY, Woodstock's pretty songstress with the inimitable style, will be featured, along with the Huguenot Dance Work Shop of New Paltz, in a special "relax from the rigors of Yule shopping" program in the art colony this weekend. Clever idea was dreamed up by Performing Arts of Woodstock and Woodstock Chamber of Commerce to attract shoppers just as stores and boutiques close for the evening in the village. PAW's Christmas present to the public will be offered tonight, Saturday, Dec. 16, at 9 o'clock in the Little Theater, Tinker Street. The modern dance group (Pat Jacobson, Betty Beard, Addie Haas, Leni Heroy, Pat Erne and Jane Vadro) will be seen in Alienation with music by the Beatles, Debussy's To Everything There Is a Season, and Air for Five Dancers by Bach. Kitty Montgomery will sing songs of Christmas, spirituals, and others by Bach, Handel and Hugo Wolf. Admission is free and so are the seasonal refreshments, provided by the local Chamber of Commerce.

Kitty Montgomery will sing songs of Christmas, spirituals, and others by Bach, Handel and Hugo Wolf. Admission is free and so are the seasonal refreshments, provided by the local Chamber of Commerce.

"Sounds of Christmas" Concert

Guest artist for the annual and always unusual Christmas Concert of the famed Catskill Glee Club will be Miss Inge Wolfe, coloratura soprano of New York City. She's the choice for this year's program to be presented Tuesday evening, Dec. 19, at the First Reformed Church in Catskill.

Miss Wolfe, a native of Germany, received her early musical training in this country. While still a high school student, her voice was admired by Mme. Ljuba Welitsch of the Metropolitan Opera Company, who encouraged her to continue vocal studies in Vienna. To Vienna she went, after graduation, and studied with a quartet of famed professors. After leaving the Vienna State Academy of Music, she was immediately singing leading roles with the Vienna Chamber Opera and, later, toured Belgium, Germany and Holland. Two years ago she joined the Metropolitan Opera Studio in Manhattan and her career has included recitals and radio appearances in Central Europe and America. During the Catskill Christmas Concerts, she will be accompanied by the noted Woodstock pianist, Miss Ilse Sass.

INGE WOLFE

The Catskill Glee Club needs no introduction to music lovers of this area. Directed by Donald S. Fellows, long-time Sau-gerties journalist, and accompanied by Mrs. Barbara Sparks, it is now in its 41st season. Highlighting the Yule program will be "The Sounds of Christmas," in which a typical American outdoor carol sing will be depicted. Glee clubbers and their guests will be costumed in gala attire for this special scene, expected to be one of the program's hits.

The evening of Dec. 19 will also see a $200 college scholarship being awarded to the 1967 winner of the Rolland E. Heermance Memorial Fund.

Catskill Glee Club has a large membership of 48 men, who come from many communities throughout this area. Following the Christmas Concert, they will be busy planning an active spring season which will culminate with a repeat concert at the New York State Farmer's Museum in Coopers-town next June. Plans also call for the group to participate in the Mohawk-Hudson Male Chorus Association's Mass Concert in Kingston this coming April.

SCOTT SHAROT

One of Kingston's native sons, who is currently making a name for himself as an actor in musical comedy, will be coming home for the holidays. Scott Sharot, son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Sharot, of 153 Ten Broeck Avenue, and a 1964 graduate of Kingston High School, leaves sunny California shortly to spend what he hopes will be a white Christmas with his parents.

The multi-talented Sharot has been affiliated with the Three Arts Studio of Hollywood . . . and, acting with the group since last spring, has played Albert in Bye, Bye, Birdie throughout the recent summer months—and is presently appearing in the title role of Li'l Abner. The cast will take its star and Dogpatch characters to Vandenberg Air Force Base for a final performance shortly, as part of a program which has productions going on tour of Armed Forces installations and VA hospitals throughout California, as well as being presented in the film capital.

New Face Familiar on WPIX-TV

If the new face which recently appeared next to Rex Marshall's as you viewed the news on WPIX-TV looked familiar . . . it was. It belonged to Craig Spence, former Kingstonian, ex-New England news editor, and one-time special correspondent for the Mutual Broadcasting System.

Spence, who recently returned from Vietnam, where he served as a war correspondent for Mutual, has left his radio career (which brought his voice into millions of homes) in favor of television (which will make his face equally well known). He should do just fine in his new role as a TV newscaster. Past publicity shows this still youthful former local man has racked up one success after another, since he entered the working ranks as a practicing journalist in 1957. In the intervening years, three major TV and radio networks have utilized his dispatches from such strife-torn zones as Cuba (from which he was expelled), India, Karachi, Athens, Saigon and the Mekong Delta.

His career also included a stint as radio-television press secretary to former Governor Endicott Peabody of Massachusetts, and he has been news editor and news director for several Boston and other New England stations. Gov. Peabody also appointed him to direct press relations for the Commonwealth Service Corps in his state.

Roving reporter Spence graduated from Kingston High School with the Class of 1959; later earned a BS degree in communications at Boston University. His roving instincts would seem to come naturally. As a teenager here, he participated in a "test case" to glean proof that area tavern owners were selling alcoholic beverages to underaged youths. His mellifluous voice is a natural, too. At 17, he won the New York State oratorical contest with a speech on "Constitutional Amending."

Needless to say, Spence is a welcome and multi-talented addition to the WPIX-TV news staff; will be an excellent Brinkly to Rex Marshall's Huntly.
